Draft Bill Is Completed By House Committee

Approval Delayed But Legislation Is Introduced; Bypasses UMT

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

A 19-through-25 draft bill, exempting most World War II veterans, and bypassing universal military training, yesterday was completed by the House Armed Services Committee.

A finished version of the bill, with relatively minor committee changes, was introduced in the House by Chairman Walter G. Andrews (R., N. Y.) but formal committee action was delayed until next week.

The committee is expected to approve the bill pretty much as it is after National Defense Secretary James Forrestal has a chance to look it over and report to the committee on Monday.

A contrasting bill, blending some training features with the draft as a UMT substitute, and carrying the President's reluctant approval, was being readied by the Senate Armed Services group.

The Senate version, ignored by the House committee, which has reported a separate, and probably doomed UMT bill, combines an 18-to-19½ one-year training draft with a 19½-through-25 straight two-year service draft. It may go to the Senate early next week.

The House-Senate appropriations drive for a $3,198,100,000 plane-building program and the modernized 70-group Air Force opposed by the President meanwhile was temporarily slowed down in the Senate.

Senate Appropriations Chairman Styles Bridges (R., N. H.), although backed by a 16-to-1 committee vote for the $22 million-dollar increase, failed to move immediate consideration. Acting Senate Leader Kenneth Wherry (R., Neb.) said several absent Senators "have asked me to object."

Another leader said Senator Robert A. Taft (R., Ohio), now campaigning against Harold E. Stassen for Ohio's presidential preference, was among those who suggested the delay. Taft was represented in this quarter as feeling the Senate Republican Policy Committee should have a chance to look it over.

Wherry told reporters he had not been in touch with Taft but had received objections from other Senators. Bridges voiced confidence in Senate approval but was barred by a parliamentary snarl from making his motion. He indicated he may make it early next week after the Senate unravels its See DEFENSE, Page 2, Column 4.

Roses in Church Fresh for Year, 'Is It a Miracle?'

Stockport, England, April 30 (AP). Father James Turner, rector of St. Mary's Catholic Church, today said the roses used a year ago for the church's May festival will be used again, still fresh, in Sunday's event.

"Is it a miracle?" he asked. "I do not know."

"But this amazing thing happened in my little church, and while I can't say whether there has been a divine intervention to keep this bouquet fresh for a whole year I do regard it as a mysterious suggestion to hold an especially devout May service. And that is what we will have, a glorious May festival."

Father Turner estimated that 100,000 persons had visited the church since the 22 yellow roses were first placed on the statue of the Virgin Mary last May.

"Normally, they should have wilted within a week or so," he said. "But they are fresh today, the fern is vibrant in my fingers—it's alive. The petals are soft, not like paper or hay, and there is no sign of crumbling."

Bing's a Sucker For a Parade

By Henry Robland—The Washington Post

BING CROSBY starts in on an all-day sucker for an all-day parade yesterday at the Apple Fete in Winchester, Va. "Der Bingle" disclosed that he will appear in Washington May 16 in a dual role. He will play golf with other notable in the second annual National Celebrities Tournament at Columbia Country Club at noon and that night will be guest star on NBC's Edgar Bergen-Charlie McCarthy broadcast at Uline Arena. Both shows are sponsored by The Washington Post in conjunction with Attorney General Tom Clark's efforts to combat juvenile delinquency (Story on Page B-1)

A half dozen "customers" walked into the store to place numbers yesterday while a reporter from The Washington Post was there to inquire into Boldware's "business."

Within a few hours after Boldware's death, it was learned, his "runners" or "pickup men" who collect numbers from other writing spots were being approached by representatives of other numbers backers, eager to take over the dead man's business.

Boldware formerly lived in a small apartment over the store. He invested his money carefully in real estate, and at the time of his death, he lived in a large house at 125 R. St. NW.

Arrested Eleven Times

Eleven times, starting in 1931, police records show that Boldware was arrested on charges ranging from disorderly conduct and having an unlicensed dog to operating a lottery and possessing lottery slips.

He was fined six times for drunkenness and similar offenses, but his only penalty for numbers charges was being placed on probation in 1939 for operating a lottery and possession of lottery slips.

The next time he came up on the same charge, in May, 1946, a grand jury "ignored" the charges for lack of evidence. For December, 1946, a similar charge carried a notation, "no papers," indicating insufficient evidence to prosecute.

This year's budget totaled $5,688,000, including $2,787,000 for county purposes and $1,367,375 for the county share of the school budget, and $468,000 for estimated State and Federal expenditures for county schools.

In setting next year's $1,750,000 basic school budget, the board topped $225,000 from the $1,525,000 basic budget requested by the School Board.

County Board member Alfred Frisbie, however, estimated that the approximate increase of $382,625 for schools over the 1947-48 appropriation would represent a 30-cent increase in the school's share of the $3.25 tax assessment.

This would mean that the schools would have $1.55 of the total tax, with $1.70 for general county purposes.

Two county board members—Chairman Daniel A. Dugan and Mrs. Florence Cannon—voted at the Court House meeting for a 25-cent increase in the $3.25 tax rate to provide for the full budget requested by the school board.

They were voted down by board members Basil DeLashmott, F. Freeland Chew, and Alfred Frisbie. DeLashmott stated that the problems facing the board "have not been paralleled in all my years of service."

Soviet Diplomat's Son Vetoes School When Bike Is Disabled

Even the serious-minded son of a Russian diplomat at times finds the lure of a spring morning in Rock Creek Park irresistible.

So it was with Ura Belikov, 16, son of Capt. A. Belikov, assistant naval attaché of the Russian Embassy here.

For almost eight hours yesterday the embassy staff was frantically anxious and Metropolitan Police were busily scouring the city for Ura. He vanished about 6:40 a. m. when he left home, 2801 Kenyon st. NW, on his American bicycle.

He headed off to the Russian Embassy School, 1304 21st st. NW, parks.

Numbers Place Busy Near Police

'Sunshine's' Business Goes On Despite His Death in Car Crash Thursday

A flourishing numbers writing establishment is located at 902 Florida ave. NW, just around the corner from the Thirteenth Precinct Police Station.

Despite the announcement that a special Federal grand jury will be impaneled here May 17 to conduct an unprecedented probe, a reporter from The Washington Post yesterday found the numbers spot in unaltered operation.

The place is well known both to precinct police and members of the Vice Squad, who arrested its owner many times, but say they have been powerless in efforts to close it.

Report 29 Places in Area

Residents in the area say there are 29 similar spots in the seven-block area between 8th and 13th st. NW, and a half block on either side of U. St. The Thirteenth Precinct is on U. St. near 9th st.

At 902 Florida ave. there is a newstand and cigar shop on the street front, with several rooms behind the shop. Across the window of the store, in large letters, there is the name, "Sunshine's."

An automobile crash on Thursday snuffed out the life of 38-year-old William Howard Taft (Sunshine) Boldware, but the accident which turned his 1947 Lincoln club coupe into crumpled wreckage did not slow down the profitable operations at the store that bears his name.

Lewis Calls For Contract Negotiations

John L. Lewis called on soft coal operators yesterday to start negotiating a new contract May 18. All signs pointed to a hot fight over the pension issue, already the cause of one strike this year.

The United Mine Workers' present contract doesn't expire until June 30. In giving notice of new contract talks 60 days in advance, Lewis apparently was recognizing a provision of the Taft-Hartley labor law.

The law requires 60-day notices. Lewis' contract says that 30 days is sufficient.

Also, the May 18 date for beginning negotiations may be significant. In the past, the starting date usually has been about 30 days ahead of the deadline. A result has been that an old contract expired before a new one took effect, with miners leaving their jobs under a no contract, no work tradition.

Southern coal producers also called for new contract talks; they set no specific date.

The present contract allows $13.65 for an 8-hour day of which $12 are spent in digging coal. It provides for a $100 payment for a 10-day vacation period. Lewis See COAL, Page 7, Column 5.

House Votes Tideland to States, 257-29

Once-Vetoed Measure Would Surrender Oil, Minerals Worth Billions

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

The House voted by an overwhelming 257 to 29 yesterday to surrender to the States title to billions of dollars' worth of oil and other tidelands.

The measure, in effect, overrides a Supreme Court decision that the Federal Government has "paramount rights" over all lands under the sea for 3 miles offshore.

The measure, which President Truman vetoed in 1946 and is likely to be rejected again, was offered by Representative E. Wallace Chadwick (R., Penna.). Supporters of the bill argued that the Supreme Court decision of last June 23 did not actually confirm Federal ownership.

The bill now goes to the Senate. Under the ocean, besides oil, are wealth now not dreamed of. All this, under the bill, would be taken from the Government and handed to the States that happen to be on an ocean.

California and Texas will be the chief beneficiaries under the measure.

Representative Adolph J. Sabath (D., Ill.) was the only member to speak against Chadwick's bill. He charged that it was engineered by "a powerful lobby which is endangering this country."

He contended its purpose was to nullify the Supreme Court ruling.

"The United States," he said, has spent billions to protect oil in Arabia, and "here we are going to give away lands that contain oil."

The fact that oil exists in coastal lands, off California was called "irrelevant" by Representative Charles E. Fisher (R., Calif.). "This is purely a question of State sovereignty," he said.

In Talk to Methodists

Editor Urges One More Effort To Negotiate With Russia

Boston, April 30 (AP)—Dr. Roy L. Smith of Chicago, editor of The Christian Advocate, told the Methodist quadrennial convention today that the United States should "make one more honest, serious and thoughtful effort to negotiate with Russia."

"It is not necessary to sacrifice principles in doing so," he told the 63 bishops and 758 delegates assembled here. "But I am perfectly sure that the Lord Christ who commanded the doctrine of the... other check would approve a great nation like the United States making every possible effort to avoid conflict."

Smith said the "hysterical state of mind" of the world and the "madness that has seized upon the American people" made it difficult to discuss the threat of war without adding to the confusion.

However, he said, "it must be admitted that the Government at Washington is at least partly responsible for the hysteria which we suffer. It is impossible for high officials to give out word of the appearance of 'enemy submarines' offshore the 'American coasts' without the people becoming alarmed, even if it happens that at the moment... a high pressure effort is on to influence Congress in behalf of defense appropriations."

"In any attempt to study the world situation and the threat of war," he said, "the Pentagon penetration... in Washington must not be overlooked."

Smith said he considered the Communist menace serious, but that the way to fight it was by making democracy sufficiently effective and hopeful that men would not be seduced.

"It means, for instance," he said, "that squalor, unsanitary housing, disease infested areas, exorbitant rents, and infectious plumbing must be torn out of large areas of Chicago and other great American cities, and that our Negro population be given a chance at decent housing and fair employment."

"Let us go into this world to raise its hopes, help solve its problems, better its life, open the doors of opportunity and bear one another's burdens."

"Let it not be said that we are Communists more loyal to Karl Marx than a Methodist is to Jesus Christ."

Bill Proposes Same Atomic Board Till '50

McMahon Brands As 'Irresponsible' Hickenlooper Plan For 2-Year Term

Chairman Bourke B. Hickenlooper (R., Iowa) of the Joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee yesterday offered a bill to reappoint the present Atomic Energy Commission for two more years.

The measure was offered in challenge to President Truman's warning of Thursday that failure to appoint the commission as he had recommended would "cast a pall of uncertainty" on the whole "gigantic" atomic energy program.

The bill was co-sponsored by Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D., Colo.), a member of Hickenlooper's committee, and the only Democrat so far to join the rebellion against Mr. Truman's appointments.

A similar measure was offered in the House by Representative W. Sterling Cole (R., N. Y.), vice chairman of the joint committee.

Mr. Truman had reappointed David E. Lilienthal chairman of AEC for five years, and the others for staggered terms of from one to four years. The day the White House sent the appointments to the Senate, Hickenlooper visited Mr. Truman. He reportedly said that Lilienthal be responsible for only one year, but was ignored.

Hickenlooper's bill has the support of most Republicans. It would give the President elected next November the right to name his own committee in 1950.

A sharp fight on the bill is promised by Senator Brian McMahon (D., Conn.), former chairman of the Hickenlooper committee. McMahon yesterday called Hickenlooper's bill "irresponsible and reckless."

If President Truman should veto the measure, the Senate could not refuse to confirm his nominations. The commissioners' terms would then expire August 1, and they could be kept in office only until the new Congress convenes in January.

U. S. to Permit Soviet Purchases Of Farm Machines

By the United Press

The Government's new export controls will permit Russia and other eastern European satellites to buy agricultural equipment here but no heavy machinery which could be used for war production.

The Commerce Department yesterday made public a list of items which Russia may buy under the controls which have been in effect since March 1. They include horses for breeding purposes and mules, cooking utensils, hospital supplies, and knives and forks.

The agricultural implements will not include tractors. There had been rumors that the Soviets were diverting their tractor factories to tank production and trying to obtain tractors here.

The list was drafted by a committee representing the armed forces, and Atomic Energy Commission, and the State, Agriculture, Interior and Commerce Departments.

Seats in the congress would be keyed off for representatives of arms, fixed quotas for a defensive force ready to fight immediately, and development of a network of air bases for common use.

The five-nation alliance's military committee will study such questions as standardization of arms, fixed quotas for a defensive force ready to fight immediately, and development of a network of air bases for common use.

Arab, Jewish Forces Battle for Holy City; Explosions End Truce

Draws Some Support

Truce Hope Dim, U. S. Pushes Palestine Trusteeship Plan

Lake Success, April 30 (AP)—As United Nations truce attempts for Palestine appeared to have collapsed tonight, an urgent United States plan for a temporary trusteeship to save Jerusalem drew some tentative support here.

The plan, drafted at a meeting of United States, Belgian and New Zealand delegates, provides for a U. N. representative in Jerusalem to call upon members of the U. N. to supply forces if needed to maintain law and order.

The United States has told the U. N. it would contribute a share of armed forces to any U. N. army backing trusteeship in Palestine.

Despite American insistence on urgency of the plan, it got nowhere in the Trusteeship Council which held a special meeting on it tonight. Russia objected, Britain said it would abstain, the Jewish Agency reserved its position and the Arabs opposed the new plan. The council then adjourned until Monday morning.

Earlier, two telegrams were received from the Security Council Trusteeship Commission in Jerusalem: One reported that the Palestine situation is deteriorating rapidly. It said fighting is intensifying and governmental activities are coming to a standstill.

The other telegram reportedly said the Truce Commission had been unable to bring the Jews and Arabs together to talk terms. Hope for a truce in the Walled City of Jerusalem also dimmed. The Arab Higher Committee delegate, Jamal Husseini, said the new Jewish offensive in modern Jerusalem wiped out hope for any truce.

The Trusteeship Council still considered that the cease-fire agreement for the Walled City stood and hoped to send a formal order to both sides Saturday.

Also meeting on Palestine, the 38-nation Political Committee interrupted debate on United States trusteeship plans for Palestine as a whole to hear the Truce Commission's telegram reporting failure. The second telegram reportedly declared the Jewish Agency had demanded free immigration into Palestine and retirement of outside Arabs from Palestine. The Political Committee voted 26 to 16 to continue its discussion Saturday.

West Europe Bloc Forms Defense Union

Plan Reported Drawn With U. S. to Start German Government

London, April 30 (AP)—The western European alliance set up a permanent military organization for defense today, and with the United States reportedly to have drafted plans for making western Germany a partner in democracy.

Defense ministers of Britain, France, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg held their first meeting under the Brussels pact and announced that they had created a permanent organization to "examine common defense problems."

Simultaneously Britain, France, the United States and the Benelux countries were meeting to discuss the Brussels pact and to agree to set up a western German government this year with broad powers over domestic affairs.

The six powers in considering the future of Germany were said to have agreed upon a tentative plan for a German congress of two houses to be set up by September 1.

This would be followed by a gradual assumption of authority over internal affairs, with the occupying powers keeping the strings on foreign affairs and exports and imports.

Seats in the congress would be keyed off for representatives of arms, fixed quotas for a defensive force ready to fight immediately, and development of a network of air bases for common use.

Russia Claims U. S. Kidnaped Officer

Seoul As Capital Soviet Claims Jurisdiction In All Korea

Seoul, Korea, (Saturday, May 1, U.P.)—The Soviet puppet government of northern Korea today adopted a constitution claiming jurisdiction over all Korea, including the American occupation zone.

The constitution said the capital would be Seoul, now occupied by the United States but for the present the capital will remain at Pyongyang, seat of the Soviet occupation government.

Adoption of the constitution was announced by Pyongyang radio at the opening of a tense May Day weekend. All United States troops have been alerted.

It came only 10 days before scheduled elections in southern Korea, under the United Nations. The Soviets have refused to take any part in the elections.

Tension was heightened when unidentified assailants attempted to assassinate Seoul police chief T. S. Chang last night.

Eight American women and children were evacuated a few hours earlier from Cheju Island, where Communist mobs were reported in disorder.

Norway Hits Warning Note To Aggressors

Oslo, Norway, April 30 (U.P.)—Norway served notice today she will fight for preservation of her freedom, if necessary, and share the task of restoring Europe's economic stability.

Foreign Secretary Halvard Lange said in an address at Trondheim that "under all circumstances we must defend ourselves against attacks and, through our foreign policy, we must aim at obtaining the greatest possible security against the danger of aggression."

He did not name possible aggressors, but said:

"Norway does not stand indifferent towards the ideological struggle between democracy and totalitarianism. In the interests of peace and cooperation, we go in for European cooperation for joint reconstruction."

Lange left up in the air the question whether Norway ultimately will join the recently formed western European alliance. Norway, along with Denmark and Sweden, has clung to a joint Scandinavian stand of limiting cooperation with other countries to share Marshall Plan aid strictly in the economy field.

GEN. MUIR S. FAIRCHILD
Would succeed Vandenberg

Vandenberg Takes Oath as Air Force Chief

Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg took command yesterday as Chief of Staff of the Air Force.

His uncle, Senate President Arthur H. Vandenberg, was among those who saw him take the oath.

Vandenberg succeeds Gen. Carl Spaatz, who will leave shortly on an inspection trip to Europe, before going on terminal leave May 15. He retires June 30.

Vandenberg has been vice Chief of Staff since last fall. Maj. Gen. Muir S. Fairchild, commander of the Air University at Maxwell Air Force Base, Ala., is being recommended for the vice chieftaincy.

Americas Sign Charter of Organization

Bogota, Colombia, April 30 (U.P.)—The charter of the Organization of American States was signed formally today by the representatives of the 21 Western Hemisphere republics, bringing to a close the ninth Pan American Conference.

In a ceremony in the historic residence of South American Liberator Simon Bolivar, the delegates also signed a treaty for the peaceful solution of international controversies known as the Treaty of Bogota.

A basic agreement on inter-American economic cooperation; two agreements on women's political and civil rights; and two declarations on social guarantees and human rights and duties also were signed.

Finally, the delegates signed three important resolutions: One, voicing a desire that European colonies in the Western Hemisphere be ended; another on "continuance of diplomatic relationships," or automatic recognition of de facto governments; and a third on defense of democracy, known as the "anti-Communist resolution."

All documents, resolutions and recommendations require congressional ratification by a majority of the American republics before they become effective.

The new Organization of American States will replace the 58-year-old Pan American Union.

It will consist of a secretariat general, and a council which replaces the governing board of the Pan American Union and assumes large functions.

The conference decided to keep the inter-American defense board which has been sitting at Washington since 1942.

A special economic conference will be held in Buenos Aires later to take up creation of an Inter-American Bank, an Inter-American Development Corporation, an Inter-American Commercial Institute; an agreement on double taxation, and postal rates and shipping policy matter.

Finn Treaty Signed

Helsinki, Finland, April 30 (U.P.)—President Juho K. Paasikivi today signed a parliamentary measure ratifying the new Finnish-Soviet treaty.

The department indicted it will ask a much higher pig crop next spring. It will be necessary, it said, to offset the declines expected in the output of beef, veal, lamb and mutton in 1949 and to keep the total supply of all meats from falling below 140 pounds per capita.

Meat output this year was estimated at 143 pounds per person compared with consumption last year of 155 pounds—a 25-year record.

Draft Bill Is Completed

tangle over extension of expiring FHA loan authority.

Air Force Secretary W. Stuart Symington, who has supported throughout the 70-group Air Force, as opposed to the 66-group compromise advanced by Forrestal and the President, meanwhile had a talk with Mr. Truman.

Leaving the White House, he said there were "no differences" between himself and the President over defense.

Report Filed
He described his conference with the President as "friendly" and said they did not discuss how many Air groups there should be. But Symington's position still appeared to be this: officially he still supports the Administration's 66-group Air Force proposal. But personally he thinks the 70-group plan is vital and had to testify when questioned under oath in committee.

The Senate Appropriation Committee's formal report filed with the Senate yesterday adopted Symington's "personal" view, and said for three years this has been the position of the Air Force, supported by Generals Eisenhower and Spaatz, the President's Air Policy Commission, and the Joint Congressional Aviation Policy Board.

The report said the 70-group program is "the minimum postwar program for the Air Force, providing adequate security for the United States" and added:

"It is our belief that the essential phase of any future war would be determined by air action; and for the first time in United States history, can be attacked without warning, from the air. Immediate retaliatory attack through the air is essential to any subsequent successful conduct of such a war on our part."

The specific issue presented by the bill before us is the necessity of speed in the modernization of our air arm."

Amendments Disclosed
The completed draft bill introduced in the House yesterday will probably clear the committee on Monday and reach the House floor the following week. Designed to put 700,000 more men in uniform over the next two years, it requires all men 18 through 30 to register, but only the 19-through-25 age group would be liable to induction and two years of service.

Here are some of the amendments disclosed yesterday:

Men in the 19-through-25 group could voluntarily enlist in the manpower-duty Army for a two-year period, but three years would continue to be the voluntary enlistment period in the other branches.

Veterans with combat decorations would be added to the already broad World War II service exemptions. Under other provisions, veterans with more than one-year service would be exempt if they enlist in a reserve component.

Doctors would be inducted at a rate of five doctors for every thousand persons inducted, instead of the bill's earlier ratio of three doctors for every thousand inductees.

Reserve component training rules would be tightened up to require drill attendance 24 times a year to receive pay.

Europe Arms Loan 'Unlikely'

of the Charter should be used to the utmost.

Chairman Arthur H. Vandenberg (R., Mich.) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee has been pondering such a resolution for several weeks and has been discussing it with Senate colleagues and with Secretary Marshall.

Even if it is phrased in general terms, it could have two main effects at the same time:

1. It would encourage western Europe, it might produce a sense of caution in the Kremlin, and it would let Secretary Marshall negotiate a defense pact in the sure knowledge that Congress was behind him.

2. It might, conceivably, take some of the wind out of the sails of Senator Homer Ferguson (R., Mich.), Representative Walter Judd (R., Minn.) and the miscellaneous group of both parties in both houses which has been demanding drastic revision of the U. N. Charter.

Priority to U. S. Rearming
None of this will produce American arms for the western Europeans this year, but European diplomats in Washington were not taking too tragic a view of the prospect yesterday.

Judging from the comments of several, they know that a rapid strengthening of American armed forces will be more important to Europe than any immediate supply of American arms. After all, one of them recalled, the Europeans themselves are short of trained manpower, and need to take many preparedness measures of their own before supplies from the United States will be of any use to them.

10 Hurt at Airport As Movie Is Filmed

Newark, N. J., April 30 (U.P.)—Movie Actor Jimmy Stewart stepped into a real-life role today helping remove 10 persons injured at Newark Airport after a freak wind toppled a scaffold during the filming of a movie.

Stewart and actor Eddie Albert, escaped injury. The movie is "You Got to Stay Happy." Joan Fontaine, feminine star, was not on the set. The 15-foot steel tubing scaffold, with two electricians atop, fell into a group of actors, production workers and spectators.

Fire Hazard...

DANGER TO CHILDREN—A locked exit (rear) at the end of one of the corridors in the Children's Receiving Home has been called a fire hazard. It has to be locked to keep the children confined at night because of a shortage of personnel.

Storm Balks Slav 'Invasion' Of Trieste

Trieste, April 30 (U.P.)—A heavy storm broke up a scheduled Communist "invasion" of the Anglo-American zone of Trieste today, and Allied authorities clamped a tight land and sea blockade around the zone to keep Yugoslav agitators away from May Day demonstrations here Saturday.

Ten boatloads of Yugoslav Communists sailed from Yugoslavia yesterday to disrupt the celebrations. The fleet was driven back by heavy seas and a blinding rainstorm.

American and British troops were deployed along the frontiers to prevent Communist infiltrations.

Child Home Discussion Set by Mason

Commissioner Guy Mason said yesterday he will meet with members of the Board of Public Welfare, probably Monday, to discuss conditions at the Receiving Home for Children.

The District Medical Society, in a report Thursday, charged that children live in a "firetrap" at the home, have poor diet, insufficient staff help, and lack educational and recreational facilities.

It is up to the Welfare Board to inform the Commissioners of its needs at the receiving home, Mason declared. "We can't administer something over which we have no control." The Commissioners have only budgetary control over welfare activities, he pointed out.

Fire Marshal R. C. Roberts recommended certain improvements in the building following an inspection last September, he said, and the necessary changes were made by the Engineer Department.

Roberts was sent to the home yesterday to see if all the recommendations had been properly carried out, Mason said.

Mason termed the Medical Society report "thoroughly constructive" but said it "overlooked the fact that the new home" being built at Mount Olivet rd. near Corcoran at ne., will be ready for occupancy next August.

Acting Welfare Director Raymond Clapp announced yesterday that a "qualified" teacher will be hired and put on the job at the receiving home "within 10 days."

5-Power Plan Arabs Agree To Fight War Of Attrition

Amman, Trans-Jordan, April 30 (By Telephone to Cairo) U.P.—Trans-Jordan, Iraq, Syria, Lebanon and Egypt agreed today on a long-term military campaign to wear down the Jews in Palestine, reliable sources said tonight.

Military leaders of the five Arab countries, at a conference here, were reported to have decided against a blitzkrieg campaign because they lack the well-trained and well-equipped troops needed.

Hence they decided on a war of attrition, sources close to them said.

Political leaders of the Arab states also held a meeting and were said to have agreed on complete unity to fight for Palestine.

Abdullah Hints Delay In Attack Until May 15

Cairo, Egypt, April 30 (U.P.)—King Abdullah of Trans-Jordan today said he planned no attack on Palestine until the British mandate expired May 15.

Asked when he would start fighting, Abdullah said:

"You will see when the British mandate is over. I do not want to clash with the British forces."

drive into Jerusalem from jump-off points to the west on the Jerusalem-Tel Aviv road.

At sundown, confirmed accounts said the Jews are in strength on promontories at either end of the Katamon quarter, originally a mixed section of the city from which the Jews were driven weeks ago.

Haganah listed its casualties thus far as 15 Jews dead and 37 wounded. An Arab military leader conceded that 30 Arabs had been killed. He declared Jewish casualties were equally high.

The British army asked the Arabs asked for a brief truce to bring out dead and wounded.

Arab commanders threatened to launch a major counterblow tonight as soon as their artillery and reinforcements come up.

One Haganah column took Shakhin hill and the other occupied St. Simeon's monastery belonging to the Greek Orthodox Church. A Jewish communiqué said:

"Haganah undertakes to guard the monastery and return everything to its rightful owners. The monastery in recent weeks was not a legitimate holy place but was the headquarters of Arab fighters."

This allegation was confirmed by the British army.

The Jewish underground organization, Irgun Zvai Leumi, has captured the northern Manshiq quarter of Jaffa and is holding its positions there. A cease-fire agreement halted fighting there yesterday after the British shelled the Irgun lines.

tion time-table adopted November 29, 1947, were ignored.

Yesterday was the date on which the Trusteeship Council was supposed to have completed work on a trusteeship plan for an internationalized Jerusalem zone.

Tomorrow is the date on which the British had agreed for arrival of the Palestine partition commission to meet the May 15 deadline set by the British for giving up the Palestine mandate. The commission remained here.

The Nation Associates, a private organization, presented to the U. N. a memorandum it said contained secret British records disclosing a plan for deliberate sabotage of the U. N. Palestine partition resolution.

A copy also was sent to President Truman with an urgent request that he issue a new directive to the United States delegation to support the partition plan.

The associates said Dr. Frank P. Graham, president of the University of North Carolina, is chairman.

Rise in Farm Prices Nearly 3% in Month

Farm prices rose nearly 3 percent during the month ended April 15, continuing a trend that began after a February slump.

Reporting that the Agriculture Department said yesterday the index of all farm prices in mid-April was 291 per cent of the 1909-14 average. This compared with 288 per cent a month earlier and with 282 per cent in mid-February.

Cotton, soybeans, beef cattle, lambs, cabbage and strawberries led the upward advance. All grains except barley made gains.

Sharp decreases occurred in prices of hogs and oranges.

FBI Has Conducted 2048 'Full Field' Investigations

The Department of Justice announced yesterday that the FBI has processed and returned to the Civil Service Commission for transmittal to the employing agencies, 1,786,126 employee loyalty forms marked "no disloyal data" under the Federal employee loyalty program.

Director J. Edgar Hoover of the FBI stated that to date 2048 full field investigations under the loyalty program have been opened. He said that of the 571 investigations completed there were 12 cases the individuals were found not to be employed by the Government. Four hundred and twenty-six completed cases have been referred to the Civil Service Commission.

The FBI said that in its investigations it seeks information on evidence which will enable the loyalty boards in the various Government agencies to establish either the falsity or the truth of allegations.

"The FBI, as a fact-finding agency," it says, "does not evaluate the information developed during the course of its investigations and has nothing to do with the conclusions which are made as to whether an employee is to be retained or discharged as the result of its investigations."

Justice Flays Trumbo Trial Time Wasting

Justice David A. Pine yesterday cracked down on long-winded defense tactics in the Hollywood communism cases yesterday.

The trial of film writer Dalton Trumbo, for refusing to tell Congress whether he belonged to the Communist Party or the Screen Writers Guild, dragged through its fourth day yesterday. Four witnesses had taken the stand, yet the jurors had not heard a word of testimony. The week had been spent in legal arguments.

Those called to the witness stand were Representatives John McDowell (R., Pa.) and Richard B. Vail (R., Ill.), John W. Cahill, a movie agent, and Huber Blankenshore, former NLRB economist.

Brings 'Kitty Foyle' Scripts

Cahill brought a bale of movie scripts written by Trumbo, and the film for 'Kitty Foyle.' The defense wanted Justice Pine to read the scripts and see the movie, so he could decide whether he thought Trumbo was a Communist.

The justice said that had nothing to do with the case.

Of each witness, Defense Attorney Charles A. Houston and Charles Katz asked a great many questions which the judge ruled out. After every ruling, defense counsel would make a long "offer of proof," putting into the record what the witness would have said if allowed to answer. "This sometimes took as much as 15 minutes," Justice Pine stopped Attorney Katz in the middle of a sentence, saying gently:

"Mr. Katz, I am not going to have the time of this court wasted by such questions, or by these long-winded offers of proof. . . I want the defense to have every opportunity to make the record crystal clear, for use on appeal, but these statements will have to be confined to the facts, without all these details."

The real trial—with the jury in the box and witnesses testifying about Trumbo's appearance before the House Un-American Activities Committee last year—may get started sometime Monday.

Red Army Told To Be Strong

London, April 30 (U.P.)—Marshall Nikolai Bulganin, minister of the Russian armed forces, tonight said the Soviet Army must be "constantly in military preparedness" because of the "intrigues of international reaction" against the cause of peace.

Bulganin made the declaration in an order of the day to the Russian armed forces on the eve of the giant May Day celebration in Moscow.

"The Soviet people and their government do not forget the intrigues of international reaction directed against our country and the countries of new democracy, and against the cause of peace throughout the world."

In these circumstances the Soviet army and Soviet navy, called upon to safeguard the security of the Soviet people, must be constantly in military preparedness and fulfill with honor their duty to the motherland."

In Germany two American military governors answered in advance expected Communist attacks tomorrow, with May Day messages warning German workers against communism.

Good to Family, Didn't Cheat

Mrs. Boldware told a reporter: "Yes, I know he was a numbers man, but I had nothing to do with the way he made a living. He was good to me and the children, and I know he paid his income taxes and did not cheat the Government."

Besides his wife, Boldware leaves two children, Val Rene, 16 months, DeMaris, two years and two months, and a third daughter by a former wife, Barbara, 16.

Yesterday, arrangements proceeded for setting up Washington's first special grand jury to probe gambling, as the District Jury Commission drew the names of 100 persons from its jury box.

District Court Justice David A. Pine on May 17 will select from this group the 23 jurors who will probe what United States District Attorney George Morris Fay has described as a 100-million-dollar-a-year gambling racket here.

Col. E. Goring Bliss, secretary of the jury commission, said he will make "doubly sure" that the names of the 100 veniremen are not revealed, even though such a list is never made public.

Names of the 23 grand jurors, when selected, however, will be public information.

While District Attorney Fay said he could make no further comment on circumstances surrounding the grand jury probe, it was learned that he has already begun to get action on his public appeal for information dealing with gambling here.

An official of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, asked about rumors that FBI agents for several months have been gathering information for use in the probe, said: "It is not within our jurisdiction to make any comment on that."

Figures now being compiled by the Washington Criminal Justice Association show that out of 87 gambling indictments returned by grand juries during the last year on which court action was completed, there were 55 convictions—but 43 of them were on guilty pleas.

This would show that gamblers' odds on being convicted if indicted for one of the three felonies—operating a lottery, setting up a gaming table, or conspiracy to violate gaming laws, are about 5 to 3 for conviction.

However, a survey of court records from January 1 to April 15 of this year has shown that the odds against a jail sentence for either of the felonies mentioned, or possession of lottery slips—a misdemeanor—are 10 to 1 if convicted.

In Municipal Court yesterday, Judge Ellen K. Raedy fined Joe I. Clark, 36, of 1421 12th st. nw., $50 when he pleaded guilty on advice of his attorney to a charge of possession of lottery slips.

Two Others Are Freed

Two other men arrested at the same time, last April 14, at the 12th st. address, were freed when the United States Attorney's office declined to prosecute because of insufficient evidence.

They were James R. Carter, 31, of 801 21st st. ne, and Sumner T. Brooks, 42, of 804 9th st. ne. Police said that numbers slips, counting tables and an adding machine were found in the raid.

Judge Raedy granted continuances to May 7 for three men arrested in a raid on Thursday at 1329 15th st. nw., a grocery. The men, Kenneth W. Lawson, 38, of 1429 32d ave. n., Hillside, Md., Oscar Whitfield, 27, of 1513 Church st. nw., and David Lewis, 35, of 219 Upshur st. nw., were charged with operating a lottery and possession of numbers slips.

District Court Justice Pine, when he was District Attorney here in 1938, participated in the prosecution of some of the 124 persons who were indicted by a grand jury the previous year, in what was the greatest single attack on Washington's racketeers.

Among those indicted were six ourselves be in the way of losing all we have gained, and more."

Durr criticized a House subcommittee on Un-American Activities for its report on Dr. Edward U. Condon, director of the National Bureau of Standards, which had called Condon "one of the weakest links" in atomic security.

Assistant Secretary Davidson told the scientists that "some of you are no less conscious than are we of the increasing difficulty of bringing scientists and other competent people into the Government and trying to keep those who are already here is a task of equal magnitude."

Would Put Calm Aside

He said "calm must be put aside" when abuse of Government employees "goes beyond the time-honored hurrying of epithets and takes the form of invading your privacy, threatening your livelihood, defaming your character or convicting you without benefit of trial of the most serious charge that can be leveled against an American—disloyalty to the United States."

Davidson praised President Truman for refusing to surrender the confidential files on Condon to the House of Representatives and said the refusal was based "on the constitutional prerogatives of the Executive" and "the highest tradition of the Bill of Rights."

Oppenheimer said "the kind of thing that is happening to Dr. Condon is not the kind of a thing that induces people to go into public service."

"There is a very great danger," he said, "that in coming to grips with the USSR we may lose part of the things for which we are fighting."

Loomis discussed the broader relationships between Government and scientists, and said it was important the Government had more top men even if it had to double or triple the salaries offered.

50,000 Reds Trapped, Chinese Reports Say

Nanking, April 30 (U.P.)—Pro-government reports today said the Chinese Nationalists had killed 50,000 and trapped 50,000 Communist troops in a surprise operation in distant northwest Shensi Province.

Chinese war dispatches frequently have told of elaborate traps by both sides, but results rarely have equaled reports.

Dietz, who has a police record dating back to 1927, but has never served a day in jail, last January was fined $1000 in Hyattsville Police Court on gambling charges, and given a two-year suspended sentence.

Super-Speed X-Ray Movies Are Described

Development of super-speed X-ray movies—2000 times faster than a wink—was described to American Physical Society members yesterday.

Dr. Charles M. Slack, director of the Westinghouse Lamp Research Laboratories at Bloomfield, N. J., told fellow scientists the new technique on X-ray analysis promises to be of use in medicine, industry and rocket research.

He said X-rays have been recorded on motion picture film previously but the new machinery has speeded the process tremendously. It involves pairing up X-ray exposures of 10 millionths of a second and a shutterless camera shooting movies at 100 frames a second.

Made Without Blur

Slack said "we are now able for the first time to make X-ray movies of speeding objects without blur."

The Navy plans to use the super-speed X-ray movie technique in rocket research to find out how various fuels burn, he said.

Dr. E. J. Workman, president of the New Mexico School of Mines, reported that formation of rain and hail within a thunder cloud can be observed by the use of radar.

Precipitation is carried by up-surfing air currents to a height of 25,000 to 30,000 feet where the temperature is about 24 degrees below zero, Workman said. Rain and hail, visible only by radar, begin form as warm air currents carry the precipitation upward to areas of lower temperature.

Create Electrical Field

Churning currents of air and precipitation create an electrical field within the cloud, leading to flashes of lightning and accompanying thunder, he said.

Workman said it takes only 10 or 12 minutes for a fluffy white cloud to develop into a thunder-shower. Transformation takes place when convective air currents start an upsurge within the cloud, carrying precipitation to areas of low temperature. Thunderstorms of this type exhibit a definite pattern in their life histories, he said.

Lewis V. Judson of the National Bureau of Standards described the bureau's experience with shortening and lengthening of various bars used as a national standard for measuring length. Shrinkage or expansion of the bars is measured in terms of microns (0.00004 inch).

The three-day meeting, with headquarters at George Washington University, will conclude this afternoon.

Teacher Assailant's Stand-in Flunks Test

Brooklyn, April 30 (U.P.)—Anthony Duros, "ace in the hole" getting an older boy to take a mathematics test for him so he would be sure to pass—proved a dud today. The older boy flunked the test.

And Anthony and six other friends who shot up his teacher's stand-in in an effort to scare her into giving him a passing grade, were found guilty of juvenile delinquency today.

Police said Anthony got a zero in last semester's exam. His stand-in got 40 yesterday—well below passing.

Senate Works 2-in-1 Shift In Loan Snarl

The Senate yesterday heard Democrats urge the GOP to nominate Senator Robert A. Taft (R., Ohio) for the presidency and the chaplain was forced to pray twice in a topsy-turvy battle over housing.

Finally after a crackling scrap, the Senate put over until Monday a bill to continue the Government's home loan insurance program.

Senate failure to take action technically means that the program lapsed at midnight, but actually it will be continued with a retroactive provision sometime next week.

The House, which had already passed the extension, recessed to wait for the Senate to act last night but finally at 3:30 p.m., the weary Senate gave up until Monday.

Parliamentary maneuvers were coming thick and fast. Twice the sergeant at arms was instructed to bring reluctant Senators to the floor so a quorum could be obtained and the Senate not be forced to adjourn without action.

The day started off when Republican whip Kenneth S. Wherry (R., Neb.) called up a bill to extend Title VI of the National Housing Act for 30 days, increasing the loan insurance authorization from $5,350,000,000 to $5,600,000,000.

The House had passed legislation extending Title VI for one year. The Senate had incorporated the overwhelmingly popular provision as a part of the Taft-Elliender-Wagner bill, which has also within it the less popular public housing feature.

The House has not yet acted on the TEFW bill.

When Wherry brought the one-month bill up, Senator J. William Fulbright (D., Ark.) objected on behalf of Senator Ralph Flanders (R., Vt.) of the Senate Banking and Currency Subcommittee who is ill.

Wherry then wanted a vote on bringing the measure up, but Fulbright blocked it on the ground the legislation had not been on the Senate calendar for a full legislative day was started with a new prayer by the chaplain.

Wherry then proposed an adjournment and a new legislative day. The Senate agreed at 1:11:4

Californian Turns In Here as Embezzler

Accountant Admits Taking From $10,000 to $20,000; Books Called $45,200 Short

A West Coast accountant, loaded with conscience but only $80 of the $10,000 to $20,000 he says he embezzled, gave himself up to police here yesterday.

"My conscience is killing me," 49-year-old Harry Donald Patton of Oakland, Calif., told Detective Sgt. John L. Bocina.

When Patton appeared at headquarters about 6 a. m., he told Detective Sgt. Oscar Mansfield "you probably want me."

Bocina, a member of the fugitive squad, verified Patton's belief. Police were notified April 17 that

Patton was en route to Washington and that company books in the Oakland firm where he worked showed a shortage of "at least $45,200."

He told police the amount he took was "between $10,000 and $20,000."

Police learned his wife had urged him to give himself up in a telephone conversation before dawn yesterday.

Questioned as to what he did with the money, Patton shrugged: "You know how an amount like that will just get away from you."

He said the money had not been used for gambling.

Patton waived extradition and is being held here pending the arrival of a representative of the company from Oakland today.

Patton waived extradition and is being held here pending the arrival of a representative of the company from Oakland today.

Patton learned his wife had urged him to give himself up in a telephone conversation before dawn yesterday.

Questioned as to what he did with the money, Patton shrugged: "You know how an amount like that will just get away from you."

He said the money had not been used for gambling.

Police Start New Receipt Plan Today

Police today will start using a new receipt system for support money deposited at precinct stations for juveniles. Frequently a parent finds it more convenient to leave the money at a precinct station than to deliver it to court.

Shortages at the Fourth Precinct included support money as well as police association funds. Investigation followed the suicide of Pvt. Oscar L. Fisher, on September 18, 1947.

The receipts involved apply to money paid into Juvenile Court. Heretofore receipts have gone only to the court and the payer, will be held accountable, more-Now an additional receipt will be over, for each book of receipts, filed at the precinct station. Clerks whose pages will be prenumbered.

Big Turtle Race To Be Run May 15

The Second Annual Northern Virginia Invitation Sweepstakes for Turtles will be run May 15 at 2:30 p. m. at Virginia Seminary as a feature attraction of the annual Seminary Fair.

Turtle race judges said entries should be registered 2 p. m. on race day. Record to beat will be last year's time of one minute 53 seconds over the 15-foot course.

Entries in the pet show—for unusual, interesting or appealing pets—are handled by Mrs. Walter Karig, Seminary P.O., Alexandria. They should be brought to the seminary grounds by 1:30 p. m. on May 15 in escape-proof boxes.

The Women's Auxiliary of Immanuel Church-on-the-Hill sponsors the fair to raise funds for church work in the parish and abroad.

40-Hour Law Exempts Motor Carrier Men

Some 470,000 motor carrier workers whose jobs involve "safety of operation" now may work over 40 hours a week without premium pay.

Wage Hour Administrator William R. McCombs ruled yesterday these four groups—drivers, helpers, loaders and mechanics—are exempt from time-and-a-half overtime pay for provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act.

McCombs said employers still must pay these workers the 40-cent hourly minimum set up by the act, adopted in 1938. The carriers involved come under the jurisdiction of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Gelatin Medium
Hobbles Huxley

By Richard L. Coe

A WOMAN'S VENGEANCE, at the Metropolitan, brings up once again the infinite complexity of making a movie. The problem, one regrets to say, is more interesting than the picture.

For "A Woman's Vengeance" is Aldous Huxley's own screen version of a long short story which he published some 25 years ago as "The Gloaming Smile." What made good reading does not make stimulating screen-gazing because the styles of the two media are so different.

Zoltan Korda, who directed "A Woman's Vengeance," strives to gradually reveal the mortal coils which have entwined his character. Charles Boyer plays the husband of a quarrelsome invalid. Her illness springs from the hate her husband has unleashed by dallying with other women.

The wife's best friend and neighbor, daughter of a retired Army officer, is a spinster of 35, secretly in love with the husband and lured along by his flirtatious ways (this being Boyer, the character's a Frenchman and you know those Frenchmen). Unknown to the smitten neighbor, Boyer has been carrying on a warm romance with a girl of 18.

So when the wife dies, things look bright for the dazzled 35-year-old, expressively played by Jessica Tandy. But Boyer quickly marries his 18-year-old. It's quite clear to you why Jessica is upset. For the wife's death was suspiciously sudden, as a man-hating nurse points out. A post-mortem and an inquest reveal that the wife was poisoned and all circumstantial evidence points to the husband as the murderer. Which leaves Jessica in the clear, quite revenged on Boyer for his hasty marriage to a younger woman.

Finely Acted

All of which, too, makes a neatly ironic story. But Huxley comes up against the Code and we must be assured that the woman is punished for her fell deed. And his fine differentiations in evil—that murder is more evil than philandering—is not simple to get across without the subtlety of the printed page. The pointed irony of his original story has escaped Script Writer Huxley.

The characterizations, however, are well above the norm in films. Boyer gets across as a morally weak charmer, not the sort of man for murder. Miss Tandy, who looks like a woman and not a painted doll, is splendid as the embittered murderess, and Sir Cedric Hardwicke is at his excellent best as a perceptive doctor whose powers of observation enable him to put the pieces together. The precise Mildred Natwick is the hate-filled nurse and Natchel Kampson, Michael Redgrave's wife, is outstanding in her brief scenes as the murdered wife.

It's too bad that so many stories like "The Gloaming Smile" have been lost to the screen, too, and that this quiet, polite handling couldn't have been more closely knit. While "A Woman's Vengeance" is not all that its makers must have had in mind, it is, at least, generally adult in its characterizations.

Students Revive 'The Miser'

Maryland University Players Act Moliere

THE University of Maryland not only has some ten thousand students and an anti-Princeton praetorian guard at the Coliseum, it also has a speech and drama department manned by a teaching staff of 25.

In their comfortable theater on the campus the University Players are presenting a capable performance of Moliere's comedy, "The Miser."

"L'Avare," as Jean Baptiste Poquelin called his comedy, dates back to 1668, and the adaptation Lyle D. Mayer has written and directed smartly points up the rollicking nature of the play. Since avarice is something of a rare vice these days, it is a humorous production Mayer is putting on. In his writing and directing he has gaged up the airs and graces of Louis XIV's time—point when the Frenchman's traditional thrift had, in the upper classes, become an eminent vice.

Harpagon is Moliere's central character, a hawk-nosed martinet who browbeats his children, bullies his servants and buries his gold in the garden. Moliere's plot concerns the efforts of his son and daughter to marry young folk of their own choosing. Their efforts drama department.

to get back at him include several low comedy characters and a declares his season with three performances beginning May 19 of a centrally staged "Philadelphia Story." Altogether, the University Theater, under its prexy, Charles Lewis, is a lively outfit.

THE University of Maryland not only has some ten thousand students and an anti-Princeton praetorian guard at the Coliseum, it also has a speech and drama department manned by a teaching staff of 25.

In their comfortable theater on the campus the University Players are presenting a capable performance of Moliere's comedy, "The Miser."

"L'Avare," as Jean Baptiste Poquelin called his comedy, dates back to 1668, and the adaptation Lyle D. Mayer has written and directed smartly points up the rollicking nature of the play. Since avarice is something of a rare vice these days, it is a humorous production Mayer is putting on. In his writing and directing he has gaged up the airs and graces of Louis XIV's time—point when the Frenchman's traditional thrift had, in the upper classes, become an eminent vice.

Harpagon is Moliere's central character, a hawk-nosed martinet who browbeats his children, bullies his servants and buries his gold in the garden. Moliere's plot concerns the efforts of his son and daughter to marry young folk of their own choosing. Their efforts drama department.

to get back at him include several low comedy characters and a declares his season with three

performances beginning May 19 of a centrally staged "Philadelphia Story." Altogether, the University Theater, under its prexy, Charles Lewis, is a lively outfit.

Boycott Picketing Declared Unlawful

In a precedent-setting decision, one form of peaceful picketing was held illegal yesterday by a National Labor Relations Board trial examiner.

Examiner Sidney Lindner ruled that it is a violation of the Taft-Hartley law to picket one employer's plant in an effort to make him stop doing business with another employer.

He reasoned this way: Action by a union to compel one employer to stop doing business with another is a secondary boycott, forbidden by that Taft-Hartley law. Hence any picketing to enforce such a boycott also is against the law.

The ruling involved a dispute between AFL carpenters and the Montgomery Fair Co., which operates a store at Montgomery, Ala.

Meat Strike Inquiry Asked

A resolution calling for a Senate investigation of the packing-house workers strike, and pointed toward arbitration of the six-week-old dispute, was introduced yesterday by Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D., Colo.).

Johnson said he is "firmly convinced" that the major packing companies are more concerned with "smashing" the CIO Packing-house Workers Union than they are in settling the dispute.

"From the very outset of their wage negotiations these workers have been faced with blunt refusals by the packers to seriously consider their needs or to seek a peaceful means to settle their dispute," he said.

He declared the strike has disrupted livestock marketing and injured farmers and consumers.

The strikers demanded a boost of 20 cents an hour and turned down an offer of a 9-cent raise.

Chrysler Strike Set; Mediators Hope to Stave Off Rail Walkout

Labor-management differences erupted yesterday in the worst crisis since the wave of strikes that swept the country following the war's end.

The showdown—expected largely during May—has resulted from a collision of labor's demands for another round of wage boosts against a stiffening wall of management resistance.

Major developments yesterday included:

1. The CIO United Auto Workers set May 12 for a strike of 75,000 Chrysler Corp. employees.

Norman Matthews, the UAW's national Chrysler director, to whom complete strike authority has been given said negotiations would continue right up to the strike deadline. But the union policy committee said the Chrysler workers would not "tolerate any further stalling and evasion" by the company beyond that time. Bargaining on a new wage clause for the two-year Chrysler contract began a month ago. The union is demanding a flat 30-cent hourly boost from Chrysler, company-financed insurance and pension plans, longer vacations and a guaranteed weekly wage.

Federal mediators, seeking to avert a Nation-wide rail strike set for May 11, reported that it might be staved off. Chairman Frank P. Douglass of the National ("railway") Mediation Board said after a day-long session with unions and rail leaders that "there is a possibility that we might be able to make some recommendations that are not already included in the emergency board's report which might stave off the strike."

Representative Hartley (R., N. J.) says it may be necessary to bring the Nation's 1,350,000 railroad workers under the Taft-Hartley law if the rail strike takes place.

3. The CIO United Electrical Workers Union announced it has completed all legal requirements for a strike of 200,000 of its members against the General Electric and Westinghouse Co.'s and the electrical division of General Motors.

L. R. Boulware, General Electric's vice president in charge of employee relations, said the union has asked to resume negotiations next Wednesday on wage, union recognition and check off issues. The negotiations were halted on April 23 at U. E. W.'s request.

The CIO United Steelworkers asked the Aluminum Company of America for a 25-cent-an-hour pay increase. The company indicated it is studying the demand, without further comment at present.

is expected to ask for higher pay rates and perhaps more holidays. On the pension issue, the present contract provides for operator payment of 10 cents per ton mined into a welfare and retirement fund. Lewis may ask 40 cents.

The welfare fund now amounts to 34 million dollars, but no pensions have been paid. Ezra Van Horn, operator member of the welfare fund trustees, has rejected a pension system worked out by the other trustees, Lewis and Senator Bridges (R., N. H.). That agreement ended this spring's six-week coal strike. It provides for $100 a month to miners 60 or older who have worked 20 years and have retired since May 29, 1946.

Van Horn has taken his fight to the courts. He contends the system would illegally benefit miners whose employers did not contribute to the fund, and would bankrupt it.

Lewis' goal has been $100 a month pensions for all retired UMW workers 60 or over who have worked 20 years. The operators have estimated this would require a 40-cent royalty.

The annual confusion over a new coal contract could well be greater than usual around June 30 this year.

For one thing, there is the matter of the 80-day antistrike injunction now in effect by decree of Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough. The court has not been decided as to when the injunction started.

The question thus arises whether the injunction will be in effect when the present contract expires. Also, if it is in effect, would it apply to a walkout at a time there is no contract?

Another uncertainty involves the vacation period. It is set this year for June 26 to July 4. If the miners stay away from work during their vacation period, they will be within their rights.

One contract clause the operators probably will insist on clarifying is the one which says miners shall work only when "willing and able."

U. S. Policy In Germany

A NEW CENSORSHIP was imposed the other day on news out of the American zone of occupation in Germany, and a protest was quickly forthcoming from American correspondents. While this may signify little, as American officials in Berlin insisted, it will serve nonetheless to stir new doubts as to what the policy of this Government really means for Germany and the German people.

We read that the German board of directors of the Tri-Zonal Bank of the German states have named as president and chairman of the board two financiers who were among the most useful servants of the Nazis. Herman J. Abs and August Schiewind put their brains and their skill at the service of top Nazis, the former particularly in pillaging the occupied countries of their economic resources. The average American will be puzzled by this turn of events. Where does responsibility lie? What did we fight a war for if it was only to restore such men to power?

Schiewind was recently made liaison officer for the European Recovery Program and the Bi-Zonal Economic Administration. This could be a position of paramount influence in shaping the direction of the German economy. IT IS PERFECTLY true, of course, as American military men argue, that they must use Germans with appropriate brains and technical skills. The fact that a German is a good Social Democrat who has suffered for his belief in democracy does not mean that he can be useful in helping to restore the German economy. Most of the able men seem to have been tainted with nazism in one way or another.

But this is not an answer to the larger question. That is whether control over German industry in the American and British sectors is being handed back to the same masters who made it possible for Hitler to conquer Europe.

The suspicion grows that just this is happening. A directive of three months ago to the American command in Germany pretty much nullified the whole program to deconcentrate and decartelize German industry. It produced a strong protest from employees in the decartelization branch in Berlin, who were branded "disloyal" by Maj. Gen. George P. Hayes, United States Deputy Military Governor.

At the same time, there are reports of deep dissatisfaction among the rank and file of Germans. They see the extreme right, including those who helped to create nazism, being restored to power. This is a beautiful gift to the Communists. They exploit it for all it is worth. Thus, in some way, the Soviet-sponsored news agency in Berlin got hold of General Hayes' rebuke to the Americans in the decartelization branch and made excellent propaganda with it.

It is easy to blame the military commanders on the spot for what is happening. Gen. Lucius D. Clay, United States Military Governor, has carried a tremendous and difficult task which seems, with each passing day, to grow more troublesome.

SHORTLY AFTER the war's end, it was decided to turn the responsibility over to civilians. James F. Byrnes, then Secretary of State, evaded that responsibility. He didn't want to take over this sprawling and quarrelsome baby. Sidestepping that responsibility, he left the military in control.

Under a later plan, the State Department was to take over this June. Weeks of preparation went into that plan, and then, abruptly, it was abandoned, presumably because of the growing crisis with Russia.

The British favored the socialization of German heavy industry to insure that the old bosses would not be put back in power. The American Congress would never have favored such a policy. In the absence of any real authority, it looks as though a few officials exercise the authority to make the vital decisions. Perhaps because it's the easiest way or perhaps because it's where their own prejudices lie, they are handing the levers of control back to those who wrecked the machine.

This accentuates the split between the left and the right. It handicaps the "third force" clever men who would follow a middle way between the two extremes. That is why these decisions are so important to Americans who hope for a democratic Germany. This cannot come if power is restored to the clever men who were identified with Hitlerism and the attempt at world conquest. To restore these men and call it free enterprise is a monstrous perversion of the truth.

Truman Beats Dewey, Stassen In Wire Union's Straw Poll

The Communications Workers of America, claiming 230,000 members, said yesterday that President Truman came out "head and shoulders" above any other presidential candidate in a poll among members and officers of the union.

A questionnaire distributed by the union bore the names of President Truman, Governor Thomas E. Dewey, Harold Stassen, Wallace, Senator Robert A. Taft and Senator Arthur Vandenberg. A space was left for "write-ins." The union announcement of the result said that President Truman received 38.7 per cent of the votes; Dewey, 21 per cent; Stassen, 12.1 per cent; Vandenberg, 8.1 per cent; Taft, 5.9 per cent. Wallace trailed the others with 4.4 per cent of the votes. Write-in names received 8.8 per cent of the ballots divided between Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, Governor Warren of Arthur, Speaker of the House Joseph Martin, Secretary of State Marshall, Governors Green of Illinois and Folsom of Alabama. "Even more significant were the results of the poll among the union's officers and stewards," the statement said. They gave President Truman 80 per cent of the votes, the remainder being divided between Stassen, 5.6 per cent; Dewey, 4.4 per cent; Wallace, 3.3 per cent. No votes were cast among the officers for Taft or Vandenberg, but write-in candidates, Warren and Martin, took 6.7 per cent of the votes between them. The CWA President Joseph A. Beltrac, Washington, said: "We made this survey so we could receive membership guidance and opinion as to their presidential preferences. Our convention takes place in Spokane the week of June 6, just before the Democratic and Republican conventions. We want to be in position to make a wise endorsement of a presidential candidate at the convention."

Tobin Asks Teamsters To Defer Political Action

Indianapolis, April 30 (AP)—Dan Tobin, president of the International Teamsters Union (AFL), today urged teamster locals to "keep hands off" national politics "until we find out where we stand with both parties." Tobin expressed his views in a signed article in the International Teamster, the union's magazine. He told the locals to go into local and State campaigns, but to keep hands off the congressional races, except in the cases of outstanding friends of labor, until the parties come out with a definite stand on labor. Then the International will fight, he said. "And even though we lose, we should give our enemies a battle."

Off The Record

By Ed Reed

"Well, I think it's nice that Junior should want to start a business of his own."

Taft Denies 'Justice' of U. N. Charter

Cleveland, April 30 (AP)—Senator Robert A. Taft today asserted the United Nations Charter should be amended to "eliminate all vetoes," and said the present U. N. Charter was "not based on law or justice."

Taft, continuing his campaign for presidential delegates at nearby Akron, said in a letter to the Cleveland chapter of the United World Federalists that an early meeting should be held of nations desiring to amend the U. N. Charter. He criticized the Charter on the ground that "it is not based on law or justice, but on the decision of the Security Council, as to what the Council thinks will bring peace and security."

In his letter answering inquiries from the group, which favors establishment of a world government, Taft said "we cannot hope for peace until we create a world public opinion which will insist upon action against an aggressor. Such opinion can only be mobilized behind law and justice. . . and not behind the political decisions of a body like the Security Council."

"An international tribunal should be established to pass upon specific allegations of aggression, and all nations should agree to abide by the decision of this tribunal and join in the enforcement of its decisions with armed forces. "The U. N. should set up an armed force of its own which would undertake the preliminary enforcement of decisions made by the tribunal."

Taft said the new session of nations should agree to a law "defining aggression to include not only physical movement across boundaries, but other acts having the same effect and also the building of armament beyond a quota to be fixed."

"We should eliminate all vetoes," he continued. "You have asked whether the law outlined will operate against individuals. I see no reason why it should not do so if the action of the individual constitutes aggression."

"I do not think there should be an international legislature to make new laws applying to an individual nation without its consent."

Stassen Urges U. S. Defense Plan With U. N.

Providence, R. I., April 30 (AP)—Harold E. Stassen said tonight the United States should set up joint military bases and work out joint plans of defense with other countries in the United Nations—especially the five western European nations bound by the Brussels pact.

The Republican presidential candidate told a meeting of party workers here "a method for prompt consultation and immediate counter action in emergencies should be spelled. No veto should be permitted and neither should the action or decision of one bind or control the others."

Such a program, he declared, could be worked out within the U. N. Charter. Stassen did not mention Russia, but said the United States should specifically invite England, France, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg. He proposed a joint "declaration of policy that we would view any violation of Article 2, Section 4, of the United Nations Charter as a grave threat to our own future security."

This particular article says all members of the U. N. "shall refrain in their international relations from the threat or use of force against the territorial integrity or political independence of any other state."

Stassen spent a busy day conferring with GOP leaders. Rhode Island's convention delegates are going to Philadelphia officially pledged. During a luncheon with GOP leaders, Stassen ran into an unexpected debate with Robert Dresser, Providence industrialist and a convention delegate, on his civil rights program.

Stassen said he was in favor of Federal anti-poll-tax legislation and expressed an opinion it would be constitutional. Dresser disputed him. When Dresser argued it was "unfortunate to raise this at this time when national unity is so important," Stassen replied: "The road to national unity is not through reaching an agreement between the conservative elements in the South at the expense of the civil rights of minorities."

'Polio Team' Speeds To Aid of Texas City
Boston, April 30 (AP)—In response to an appeal from Edinburg, Texas, where an outbreak of infantile paralysis was reported spreading, Boston Children's Hospital announced it would despatch a "polio team" to the Texas community tonight.

A hospital spokesman said it was understood 35 cases of polio had been reported in Edinburg, 26 within the past three weeks and eight within the past 24 hours.

He also moved, and the board passed the motion by a 4-1 vote, that the estimated collection on future taxes be increased from 87 1/2 per cent and 90 per cent to 95 per cent.

County Manager A. T. Lundberg said such increased percentage of anticipated revenue would add $200,000 more to the new budget. Asked to comment on the new school budget, School Board Chairman Barnard Joy said it most certainly would mean elimination of the $100 cost-of-living and $100 dependency allowances for Arlington teachers provided in the school board's budget.

In its meeting last night the county board also formally received a new county master-zoning plan and set June 2 and 3 at 8 p. m. for a hearing on it.

Costa Rican Red Stopped
Havana, April 30 (AP)—Manuel Mora Valverde, exiled Costa Rican Communist leader, was detained today by a Cuban army lieutenant upon arrival at the airport from Panama. Mora was en route to Mexico City.

Critics Blast Primary Call In Arlington

Arlington Democrats were criticized from three sides yesterday for their Thursday night action in calling a local primary August 3 and thus ending a two-year non-partisan truce.

Democrats, and probably the Republicans, will nominate a candidate for one County Board seat, the only local office open. One critic was County Board Chairman Daniel A. Dugan, who won his seat as an independent against both parties in 1946.

He labeled as "intended to confuse the issue" a Democratic Committee statement that if both major parties withdrew from this fall's race a third party, the Better Government League, would take over the election.

Democrats again were accused of "desperately trying to shift 'the blame' for partisan switch by Harley Williams, former chairman of the Better Government League. To this Democratic Chairman Harrison Mann countered that major political parties might have continued their no-primary policy if 'certain opportunists' like Williams had not tried to 'control' county affairs 'through his own personal political machine.'"

Another Democratic Committee critic was party member Arthur F. Souther, a possible candidate for Congress from the Eighth District, who said the committee "has again broken faith with the Federal worker."

Polls Forecast 20% Turnout
Annapolis, Md., April 30 (AP)—Political observers in the State capital today predicted a light turnout of not more than 20 per cent of the voters at congressional primaries on Monday. Some 170,000 Marylanders were expected to go to the polls, at the most.

Although no official figures were available on the total number of registered voters in Maryland, the figure was roughly estimated to be about 850,000, or a gain over the total of 828,240 in 1946. Of Maryland's six Congressmen seeking reelection, the four Democrats face primary fights, Republican Representatives Edward T. Miller of the First District on the Eastern Shore and J. Glenn Beall of the Sixth in Western Maryland are unopposed for renomination. Incumbent Democrats Hugh A. Meade in the Second District; Edward A. Garmatz in the Third; George H. Fallon in the Fourth and Landis G. Sasser in the Fifth are running in the Monday primaries.

Dewey Goes West to Fight Stassen's Bid in Oregon

Albany, N. Y., April 30 (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey turned to the West tonight for a crucial battle with Harold E. Stassen in Oregon's Republican presidential primary.

Dewey left Albany by train for New York City where he was to enplane tonight. He was scheduled to arrive Saturday morning in Portland to open his drive for the State's 12 delegate votes. Stassen, who defeated Dewey in Wisconsin, Nebraska and Pennsylvania, and the New Yorker are the only Republican presidential aspirants entered in Oregon's May 21 primary.

The first week of Dewey's itinerary called for appearances in 30 Oregon communities and a sortie to Spokane, Wash., for a dinner rally on May 8. Dewey will make his first major speech in Portland Saturday night before the Junior E. Chamber of Commerce State convention. Saturday afternoon, six hours after his arrival, he will open headquarters in Portland.

The New Yorker will visit Bonneville Dam Sunday afternoon and will remain in Portland through Monday. Dewey will begin his four of the State Tuesday, ending his first week with a plane trip from Redmond, Ore., to Spokane, Wash., where he will spend the night after attending the dinner rally.

Political observers feel the New York Governor must whip Stassen in Oregon or suffer a serious setback in his chances for the nomination. Dewey forces contend the Oregon primary will be the first real test between the two. They point out that Dewey was able to make only last-minute appearances in Wisconsin and Nebraska before the primaries there because of post-legislative affairs which kept him in Albany.

Student Flier Lands Plane in Potomac

A 22-year-old student flier, unable to find his airport in gathering dusk, landed a Piper Cub in the Potomac River southeast of Leesburg, Va., late Thursday afternoon.

He was Joseph Gordon Desarn of Irvine, Ky., a seaman on duty at the Navy's Bureau of Personnel. Despite severe head lacerations and a brain concussion, he made his way to shore and walked 4 miles before finding help. He was taken to Bethesda Naval Hospital, where his condition was reported as "satisfactory" yesterday.

Desarn, a student at Hybla Valley Airport south of Alexandria, had about 15 hours' flying time, the school reported. He had been practicing maneuvers west of the field and apparently drifted away from familiar landmarks.

The plane was found at daylight yesterday in shallow water near the bank. Search continued yesterday for an Army advanced training plane, missing since Tuesday on a flight from Chicago to Bolling Field. Air Force Air Rescue units were operating out of three fields and advanced search headquarters at Elkins, W. Va., aided by Pennsylvania National Guard aircraft. On the basis of a report that a plane of similar description had passed over Elkins apparently in trouble Tuesday, planes moved their search patterns to the mountains east of Elkins, Air Rescue headquarters here reported.

Capt. R. L. Sprague, of Selfridge Field, Mich., who is in charge of rescue operations, arrived at Elkins in a C-47 with a jeep aboard. He said a minimum of 12 search planes were being used. Aboard the missing plane are Col. Richard A. Warner, 42, of 445 Argyle dr., Alexandria, Va., and Lieut. Edward Jay, Air Force Reserve pilot, Chicago.

St. Lawrence Power Plan Urged by Dewey

Albany, N. Y., April 30 (AP)—Governor Dewey acted today to develop the vast hydro-electric power resources of the St. Lawrence River as a joint undertaking of New York State and the Province of Ontario. He directed the State Power Authority to begin negotiations with the Canadian province for a joint construction of a 322-million-dollar power plant on the international rapids section of the river.

Falls Church Census to Begin

The Falls Church Town Council announced last night that beginning Monday it will hold a census that may well show Falls Church has grown into a city.

The town needs a population of 5000 to be designated a second class Virginia city. In 1946, a census turned up a population of 4300. The town fathers hope the 3-day house-to-house count next week will reveal that Falls Church has outgrown the town size.

Also at last night's meeting, the council awarded a contract for sewer construction in the Tripps Run area to the Nance and Vividell Contracting Co. of Arlington. The company agreed to lay 1742 feet of 15-inch sewer pipe at a bid of $11,337. The council was told the job would be completed within 30 days after arrival of the pipe.

Red Friendship Council Chief Gets Jail Term, Fine

Richard Morford, head of the National Council of American Soviet Friendship, was given three months in jail and fined $250 here yesterday.

Morford was found guilty of contempt of Congress before Justice Edward M. Curran in District Court last month. He refused to turn council records over to the House Un-American Activities Committee in 1946.

Morford told the justice that the House Committee was undermining the Bill of Rights and predicted the Supreme Court some day would put a stop to the committee's investigations. His lawyers said they would file an appeal.

Chevy Chase Baptist Flock To Lay Cornerstone Tomorrow

The cornerstone of the new $200,000 Chevy Chase Baptist Church, Western ave. near Chevy Chase Circle, will be laid at ceremonies at 4 p. m. Sunday.

The Bible, the covenant of church members, Christian and American flags, and a United States coin will be among the items placed in a box in the cornerstone. The ceremonies will be broadcast over station WBCC.

The Rev. Edward O. Clark, only pastor of the church since it was organized in 1923, will preside at the service, and Dr. Clarence W. Cranford, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, will be the speaker.

Other participants will be the Rev. Charles R. Woodson, assistant pastor; Dr. M. Chandler Smith, executive secretary of the D. C. Baptist Convention; Dr. J. Hillman Hollister, pastor of Chevy Chase Presbyterian Church and moderator of the Washington City Presbytery; and the Rev. John D. Clark, pastor of the Saters Baptist Church, Towson, Md., and father of the pastor of the new church.

The church was organized in 1923, and the present church building was erected on a site at 5671 Western ave. in 1928. At that time church membership was about 100. A frame Sunday school building was added in 1928. Today the church boasts a membership of almost 650.

Foundation walls for the new church are about half completed, and members hope to have the building ready for occupancy this fall, when the church will observe the twenty-fifth anniversary of its organization.

The firm of Corning & Moore is the architect and builders are Davis, Wick & Rosenzweig Co.

Observe Anniversary

The Phyllis Wheatley YWCA will hold its forty-third anniversary observance for eight days beginning Saturday.

A variety of events is scheduled nightly, except for May 6, at the YWCA building, 901 Rhode Island ave. nw. On that night a program is scheduled in the Annex, 1719 13th st. nw. The final day's program, on May 8, will extend through the entire day.

Merger Vote Set for Two Church Groups

A proposed merger with the Evangelical and Reformed Church will be voted upon by delegates of the Congregational Christian Churches of the Middle Atlantic States when they meet here Tuesday and Wednesday.

The annual conference will be held at the First Congregational Church, 10th and G sts. nw., with the Rev. Alfred W. Hurst of Cleveland Park Congregational Church as moderator.

Merger of the two denominations has been under consideration for about six years. On April 11 the Washington Association of the Congregational Christian Churches expressed its approval of the move.

Action of the regional group will be presented at a meeting of the general council of the church in Oberlin, Ohio, on June 17. The plan would unite about 1,700,000 members of the two churches.

At a dinner meeting at 8:15 p. m. on the opening day, the Rev. Karl Heath Kopf, pastor of the host church, will be toastmaster and the speaker will be Dr. Robbins Wolcott Barstow, head of Church World Service, head of Church World Service, head of Church World Service.

An all-day workshop will be conducted by the Women's Association on Wednesday. Dr. John A. Reuling, associate secretary of the American Board for Foreign Missions, will speak to them at a luncheon.

Comment Varies on Lutheran Opposition to Women in Pulpit

By Robert Tate Allan

Opposition of United States Lutherans to ordination of women yesterday drew varied comment from clergymen.

The National Lutheran Council, in a statement issued this week, stated there was no likelihood that Lutherans in this country would follow the Church of Denmark (Lutheran), which has been permitted by the Danish Parliament to grant women holy orders.

The opposition of United States Lutherans is based on apostolic and ecclesiastical traditions.

Dr. Franklin Clark Fry, of New York City, president of the United States Lutheran Church in America, said he was confident that "the Lutheran Churches in America will be as disinclined to ordain women as our sister Lutheran Church in Denmark has shown itself to be all through the recent controversy in that country."

The stand of United States Lutherans was opposed by the Rev. Dr. Reuling will also speak to laymen and ministers at a luncheon that same day at the Washington Baptist Church, 8th and H sts. nw. Dr. John A. Reuling, associate secretary of the American Board for Foreign Missions, will also speak at the meeting.

Final speaker at the conference will be Dr. Paul F. Douglas, president of American University, who will talk on "The Place of Religion in World Survival" at a fellowship dinner at 7 p. m. Wednesday.

The Rev. Hubert Beckwith, assistant minister of First Congregational Church, is program chairman for the conference.

"We've always had plenty of men to do the preaching work," he stated, "and have found that women are among our best missionaries, particularly in such places as India."

At a meeting of the Churchmen's League of Presbyterian Men last Monday night at New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, Dr. Peter Marshall said the issue of women's ordination might possibly be the reason for the Southern Presbyterian Church's hesitancy about uniting with the Northern Presbyterian Church. Dr. Marshall is pastor of New York Avenue Church and Senate chaplain.

At 2:30 p. m. the Rev. P. C. Tourville, pastor of the French Protestant Congregation here, will speak. Representative A. S. Mike Monroney (D., Okla.) will talk on "The Need for Christian Leadership" at the wind-up fellowship dinner at 8 p. m.

The meeting of NCA will get underway at 9 a. m. Wednesday at the College of Preachers at the cathedral at 8 a. m. and breakfast at 8:30 a. m. During the six sessions, Dr. Beckwith will speak during the afternoon and at 5 p. m. Bishop and Mrs. Dun will give a garden party in the bishop's garden for members.

Episcopal Meetings Set Next Week

The Washington Episcopal Diocese and the National Cathedral Association will both hold annual meetings here during the coming week.

Clergy and lay members of the 90 churches and chapels in the area will attend the diocesan meetings, which will be held all day Monday at St. John's Church, 2400 O st. nw.

The National Cathedral Association will hold its annual meeting at the National Cathedral at 3 p. m. at 25th and North Glebe rd., Arlington.

The new Evangelical United Brethren Church was organized less than a year ago, and the building program initiated last August.

The manse was completed in January, and the chapel, cornerstone of which is to be laid Sunday, will be completed about the middle of May. Plans also call for a sanatorium and educational unit to be constructed later.

Ugo Carusi, former Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization who is making a study of displaced persons, will speak at the ceremonies. He will be introduced by H. R. Landon, assistant Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization.

The problem of "Our Avoidable Troubles" will be tackled by Dr. Seth R. Brooks at 11 a. m. at the Universalist National Memorial Church, 1610 16th st. nw. Earlier, members of the Adult Class will hear Dr. Paul Sperry of the Division for the Blind at the Library of Congress talk about his work.

A former dean of the chapel at Howard University will return to the pulpit at Andrew Rankin Memorial Chapel at 11 a. m. He is Dr. Howard Thurman, now a member of the School of Religion of Iowa State College, Ames, Iowa.

Polish Constitution Day will be commemorated at an outdoor mass at 10:30 a. m. at the Grotto of Lourdes in the Valley of the Franciscan Monastery, 13th and Quincy sts. ne, Brookland. The Rev. George Dubowski, Franciscan Father, will celebrate the mass in Polish.

The service is sponsored by the Polish Club of Washington, group 848, Polish National Alliance.

"The Meaning of the Present World Situation" will be discussed by Elder J. Lamar McKelvey, president of the World Conference of Seventh Day Adventists, at Constitution Hall at 8 p. m. The executive committee of the Adventist General Conference has been meeting at Takoma Park since Tuesday.

Church History Series. A series of sermons on "Understanding the Disciples of Christ Christian Church" will be launched by Dr. Harry L. Bell, pastor of Columbia Heights Christian Church, 1435 Park rd. nw., at 10:45 a. m. During the six sessions, Dr. Bell will examine the history and origins of the denomination and its thinking on church doctrine.

The Rev. Charles Keen of Kirkwood, Mo., will be special preacher at 8 p. m. at Church of the Epiphany, 1317 G st. ne. His theme is "Christianity and the Cultural Crisis" and "The Meaning of Existence," he is national president of the Episcopal Evangelical Fellowship and a leader of the liberal evangelical movement within the church.

Church Drive For Clothing Begins Today

The Washington Federation of Churches today will launch a door-to-door drive in this area for clothing for foreign relief.

Campaigns for the relief supplies will be carried on in the neighborhood of each church in the city, according to Mrs. Thelma Goodman, 1512 Allison st. n.w., chairman. Handbills telling the time of collections have been distributed to congregations. People who have clothing or other supplies have been asked to leave them on porches or near the curb so workers may pick them up. The drive will continue through May 15.

Mrs. Goodman said that church workers will take the material to churches which have been designated as depots. Each week trucks from Church World Service, New Windsor, Md., will make collections at the depots and take clothing to the organization's headquarters for shipment overseas.

Federation Of Churches To Elect Slate

New officers will be elected and installed at the twenty-eighth annual meeting of the Washington Federation of Churches Monday at 8 p. m. at Constitution Hall.

Dr. Joseph R. Sizoo, former pastor of the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, will speak on "Our Protestant Heritage" at the meeting. Dr. Sizoo is now president of New Brunswick Theological Seminary, New Brunswick, N. J.

Musical will be provided by the National Lutheran Chorus, under the direction of R. E. Snerud and the Rev. Thomas M. Steen of the Federation staff will lead a hymn singing.

Messages from Dr. Frederick E. Reissig, executive secretary, and Arthur S. Fleming, Civil Service Commissioner and president of the federation, will be read.

The federation has a membership of 197 churches in the Metropolitan area, and supports chaplains at St. Elizabeth and Freedmen's Hospitals and Lorton Reformatory. In addition, it carries on education and social welfare programs and supports world relief. Members of all churches in the federation have been invited to attend the meeting.

Catholic Church To Fete Virgin Mary During May

Catholic Churches throughout the world this month will observe May as the month of Our Blessed Mother, with processions honoring the Virgin Mary.

During the month many churches will hold special devotional services in the evenings. Highlight of the observance is the processional, which may be held any Sunday during the month.

Young people are the main participants in the rite. One little girl is usually designated May Queen and she has a court of honor. The May Queen places a floral wreath on a statue of the Blessed Mother, and then members of the procession join in singing hymns of praise to her.

Christ Church Services on WINX

Services at historic Christ Church, 3100 O st. n.w., will be broadcast over WINX during May at 11 a. m. each Sunday.

The Rev. John R. Anschutz, pastor of the church, will use as his text Sunday: "To will is present with me, but how to perform that which is good, I find not." The Georgetown church was organized in 1817 and the present church is the third erected on the O st. site.

Steel Firm To Cut Prices 3.5 Million

Pittsburgh, April 30 (U.P.)—Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. announced today that it will reduce prices $3,500,000 a year.

J. & L. was one of the "little steel" companies that followed U. S. Steel's lead in denying a wage increase to the CIO United Steel workers, and instead reduced prices.

A. J. Hazlett, vice president in charge of sales, announced the company's action "as its contribution to the effort to halt the spiral of inflation."

Steel Subsidiaries Post Lower Prices

New York, April 30 (U.P.)—Subsidiaries of United States Steel Corp. posted lower prices today on individual carbon and alloy products "which are most closely related to the cost of living."

Benjamin F. Fairless, president, said the price cuts effective Saturday range from $1 to $5 a ton and include:

Nails, barbed wire, fencing and other wire products, steel for roofing, silos and other farm structures, spring wire for furniture and other uses, tin plate for the manufacture of cans, cold rolled strip and sheets for the manufacture of automobiles and home appliances, and a wide variety of other steel products.

"The price reductions are made to carry out the decision announced by United States Steel April 22 to reduce various domestic steel prices to the extent of a total reduction of 25 million dollars a year," said Fairless.

Fairless also announced elimination effective Saturday of the current differential of $3 a ton at Geneva, Utah, in prices of steel products produced there by Geneva Steel Co. over prices for similar products at Pittsburgh, Gary, Ind., Chicago and Birmingham.

Plans Year of It Widow Lives In Tiny Tomb As Penance

New Delhi, India, April 30 (U.P.)—A widow who buried herself three months ago to do a year's penance for her sins said today from her underground tomb that she feels much better already.

Middle-aged widow Kalavati had herself entombed on a bank of the sacred Jumna River. She used the profits from her small New Delhi restaurant in building a 50-cubic-foot tomb. Friends sealed her in last January.

The tomb has one small ventilator at the top and a drain at the bottom. Milk and fruit, the widow's only food, are handed in through the ventilator.

Mrs. Kalavati's face was barely visible through the ventilator. Barefoot, urchins clustered to catch a glimpse of her.

Aged Babu Ram, caretaker, was skeptical as to her intentions.

"I have cremated three of her husbands," he said. "Maybe if she is here long enough, some rich old woman will give her some money." The widow said God would take her should bury herself.

Man Honored Who Lost Life Saving Woman

An Arlington, Va., man who gave his life to save a woman from drowning was awarded a Carnegie Medal posthumously yesterday.

The award, voted to 27-year-old Donald Ralph Miller, will be presented to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Allen J. Miller of 3621 First rd. south, Arlington.

Another of the 13 medals voted by the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission in Pittsburgh yesterday goes to Michael Joseph Kohut, 31-year-old St. Marys City, Md., carpenter, who helped save a Coast Guard flier from his crashed and burning plane.

Miller, a brick mason and former Air Force mechanic, plunged into Chesapeake Bay off Sharp Island near Dares Beach July 24, 1946, to rescue Miss Ellen Meyers, 34, of 3044 N st. n.w.

Miss Meyers, who fell from the boat during a night fishing party, drifted away rapidly. Miller came to the surface, holding her by one arm and the struggling called for a life preserver. Two life jackets were thrown to him, but both landed out of reach.

By that time, both were lost in darkness. A searchlight picked out Miss Meyers, unconscious. Miller's body was washed ashore 10 days later.

The Maryland carpenter's award was voted for his heroism in helping to pull Coast Guard Lieut. Louis T. O'Neill, 29, from his burning plane, March 17, 1947.

Locke's Brilliant 65-65-131 Retains Open Lead

The Washington Post Sports

This Morning

With Shirley Povich

DR. CARY MIDDLECOFF, who laid down his dental tools to take a fling at the pro golf business, hasn't won a tournament yet but as he was saying at Prince Georges yesterday, "This beats dentistry."

Right now he's sniffing deeply of the $1600 second money in the National Capital Open after firing two rounds of 69-67, on the theory this won't hurt his pocket-book a bit. Since the first of the year his golf winnings on the tournament circuit are only three bucks shy of $7000 with no office expense.

The fact is, he's the hottest article to hit the pro golf scene since Bobby Locke invaded American shores last year. Locke, himself, picks Middlecoff as the likeliest winner of the National Open, and when asked why, he said, "Because Middlecoff is playing the best golf of anybody."

With that statement Locke immediately made a liar out of himself by taking a 5-stroke lead over Middlecoff in the first two days at Prince Georges with a fancy 65-66, 13 under par. They were playing in the same threesome.

MIDDLECOFF doesn't look like a doctor of any kind. He's a tall, handsome, curly-headed kid who doesn't look like he's 26 years old. He's a walking ad for his profession and could pose as Mr. Peppercorn. He's Memphis' best claim to fame since Barbara Jo Walker walked off with the Miss America title last summer.

He likes to play with Locke. The South African steadies him, he says. "His deliberate actions remind me to keep my own temper under control. . . . Bobby is master of himself. . . . I like to play with Ben Hogan too. I've seen Hogan playing mad at himself. . . . He stands up to a shot gritting his teeth in a mood to kill the ball, but he just stands there and won't swing until he's ready to hit it."

He plays better when he plays with better golfers, he says. "They make it look so easy, it gives you confidence. Sammy Snead is great with that swing of his. . . . First thing you know you're hitting along with him. I like to watch him when I play with him. . . . But how about Snead's notorious bad putting, do you watch that too?" somebody asked Middlecoff. "That's different," he grinned. "I turn my back when Sammy puts."

HE'S A growing favorite with the galleries, and doesn't hesitate to use the golf English on his long puts, like he did on No. 17 when he got down a 25-footer with a last "oomph" from the waist up as the ball twisted toward the cup. And on the eighteenth when he dropped an even longer putt, he manifested his delight by leading the cheers for himself.

Last summer he quit the amateurs, turned down a berth on the Walker Cup team, got himself married and decided to try pro golf for a living. Early this year he was wondering if he hadn't made a big mistake. He hit the pros' circuit, played in California, and spent $1200 in winning $200 in prize money. He was practically reaching for his dental tools again when he started to cash in, finishing second in the Masters to take down $1400 and second in the Charlotte Open that netted him $1500.

"Buck White who taught me most of the golf I play wouldn't let me quit," said Middlecoff. "He talked to me straight and told me I was throwing tournaments away with one bad hole. In the amateurs, where we played match play mostly, you could have a bad hole and lose only the hole. With the pros, you lose a tournament on one bad hole."

HE'S STRUGGLING now to better his chip shots. He thought he could chip pretty well, he says, until he started playing with Locke. "I watch Locke chip and feel like I'm a bum. I don't think the guy has any mental hazards. All he can see is his ball and the cup."

The young doctor is refreshingly honest about his own game. After dropping that last 25-footer to get his 67 yesterday, he walked off the green and told Bob Hamilton, "Confidentially, I was just trying to knock it up there close. I was surprised when it dropped. I really didn't have a bead on the cup."

He says he's learning golf manners, too, from Locke. "He's a nice guy to play with. . . . When you make a good shot, he tells you. . . . When you hit a bad one, he doesn't say anything. Too many guys are suffocatingly polite about your bad shots."

The Majors Track, Tennis Occupy Highs

Track and tennis take the play away from baseball on today's schoolboy sports calendar. At College Park, 33 public highs from Washington, Virginia and Maryland compete in the annual University of Maryland track and field meet at 12:30 p. m.

Beginning at 9:30 a. m., 30 boys will open competition in the Stillwell Friends Invitational Tennis Tournament which will last through next Saturday.

The track meet will be run off in two divisions. County for small suburban schools, and interscholastic for the larger city schools.

The eight Washington public highs, plus City College, Poly, Forrest Park and Patterson Park of Baltimore, Catonsville, Md., Washington-Lee of Arlington and George Washington of Alexandria comprise the interscholastic division.

Led by District Junior Champ Gil Bogley and Boys' Champ Ted Rogers, Landon is favored to cor the Friends tennis team title for the third straight year.

Friends tennis pairings: 10:30—John Smith (147), Jimmy Thompson (147), Ky Lafon (147), 10:45—Al Houghton (145), George Schmitt (145), Ralph Beach (144), 10:55—Chris Greiner (143), Steve Elger (142), Eric Menti (140), 11:05—Henry Williams (137), Edie Johnson (131), Cliff Spitzer (132), 11:15—Art Decker (134), A. Woodrow Wilson's Green Tigers led off for 12 hits good for 21 runs as they walloped Central Vikings, 12-4, yesterday at Wilson. It was the third straight Interhigh League triumph for the Tigers.

INTERHIGH LEAGUE STANDINGS

Team	W	L	Win. Pct.	Runs	Scored
Wilson	3	0	1.000	21	23
Central	1	2	.333	4	12
West	1	1	.500	10	10
East	1	1	.500	10	10

League triumph for the Tigers who remained in a tie for first place with Eastern.

Only six Wilson runs were earned as the result of six errors. Four of Wilson's earned runs came in the fourth on a single by Leo Spers, doubles by Pitcher Don Snider and Mole Janigan, a triple by Gene Calnan, and a single by Bob Rieley. Spers' double in the second inning, and Calnan's homer in the fifth both traveled over 350 feet on the fly. Fotis Karousatos also homered for Central.

Wiley Says Intimacy on Named Night A Probability

But Won't Express
Paternity Opinion;
Miss Nowicki Fired
As Senator's Aide

Harvey W. Wiley, jr., under cross-examination yesterday admitted he and Miss Camille Nowicki probably were intimate the night of November 7, 1945, when she charges her 2-year-old son was conceived.

He would neither deny nor affirm that the boy is his son, when he was asked point-blank about the child in District Court, where Miss Nowicki is seeking $150,000 damages for breach of promise.

Thursday, he had denied any recollection of their having relations at his home after a Soviet Embassy reception that November night. Still maintaining that his memory of the evening was hazy, because he had drunk 15 vodkas and 4 bourbons, he finally hesitatingly admitted yesterday that it was probable.

Ball Forced to Fire Woman

Meanwhile, it was learned that Miss Nowicki, employed in a temporary capacity as a stenographer in the office of Senator Joseph Ball (R., Minn.), had been fired Monday.

Mrs. Elizabeth Ball, the Senator's wife and executive secretary, explained it was because they had learned from publicity about the trial, that Miss Nowicki had filled out her application with the fictitious name of "Mrs. Camille North."

She also had failed to tell them that she had once worked at the Soviet Embassy here, Mrs. Ball said. Since applications are filled out under oath, dismissal was necessary, she said.

On the stand most of yesterday, Wiley, 35, a real estate salesman and member of a prominent Washington family, changed his testimony in several instances from a statement he had made a year ago in a deposition to Miss Nowicki's attorneys.

In the deposition, he declared he had seen her several times between March and August, 1945. On the stand, he denied emphatically that he had seen her at all during that time.

"Since making the deposition, I have seen a calendar, on which I recorded all my engagements during that time. I've kept such a calendar for 15 years," he explained. He said the calendar was "unavailable" at the time he made the deposition.

He did not explain how his signature got into a guest log of Mrs. Arlene Conrad, Miss Nowicki's sister, under a dating of April 15, 1941, although he denies visiting Mrs. Conrad's home that day. He had written:

"Here's to champagne for my real friends,
And real pain for my sham friends."

Stenographer Testifies
The entry was among several under that date, including an entry by Miss Ann Kasper, a close friend of Miss Nowicki, whom he has denied ever meeting.

Wiley was followed on the stand by Mrs. Marguerite Porter, who testified that in January, 1946, Wiley told her husband Alexander, who is a friend of Wiley's, that Miss Nowicki was pregnant and "was trying to get him to marry her."

Miss Gladys Lang, a stenographer, told the packed courtroom she has been seeing Wiley steadily 4 and 5 times a week since she met him in March, 1944.

Somewhat flustered, when the plaintiff's attorneys declared that Wiley had been with Miss Nowicki and her mother January 13, 1946, and therefore could not have been with her, as she had declared, she nevertheless insisted that he had visited her apartment and taken her to a show that day.

She said she had never met Miss Nowicki nor heard Wiley refer to her by name.

Alexandria Lifts
Ban on Carnival
Games of 'Skill'

Alexandria officials backtracked slightly yesterday in their drive to stamp out gambling at a carnival in town.

After a conference with the city and Commonwealth attorneys, Police Chief Edgar Sims said some of the games he closed down Thursday would be allowed to reopen.

Sims said the conference had decided that throwing balls at milk bottles, pitching rings and throwing darts were games of skill and did not violate State or city gambling laws.

About one third of the 25 games he closed fell in this category, Sims said. Sims received orders to close all games at Prell's Broadway Shows involving the element of chance after the City Council heard rumors of gambling Tuesday.

Speeds Counting

Doctor Finds Hypnotism Aids Mind

A hypnotized person can, in his mind, count 862 cotton bolls in 3 seconds—even to looking under the leaves "to make sure I had not missed any."

This assertion was made yesterday in an article written for the Bulletin of the Georgetown University Medical Center by Washington's Dr. Linn F. Cooper, whose conclusions parallel a "night-long dream" which actually fits through the mind in seconds.

The paper, "Time Distortion in Hypnosis," was based on hypnosis of a subject whose actual timing was geared to a metronome, ticking at 1 beat per second.

Dr. Cooper's subject was a 36-year-old woman of "unimpeachable integrity."

The experiences, she said, "made more sense" than dreams.

The metronome was started at the one-second stroke rate and the subject was told, after hypnosis, that it was being "slowed down to one stroke per minute."

In actual three-second time, she counted 137 crows "walking around the edge of the field. They were very close together," she said.

"What" Dr. Cooper asks, "is this amazing state of affairs that permitted this subject, in her mind, of course but with complete sense of participating, to pick and count 862 cotton bolls in three seconds?"

He concludes by wondering—"if under hypnosis, judgments may not be made and decisions arrived at, in a mere fraction of the world time ordinarily required."

Temple Hills

A 9-year-old Temple Hill (Md.) boy was killed last night near his home when a truck collided with his bicycle as the boy rode out of a driveway.

Police said the young victim was Raymond Counts, who lived in the 5100 block of Barnabus rd., where the accident occurred at about 6:30 p. m.

Driver of the truck, identified as Elmer E. Proctor, 6061 Barnabus rd., was held by Prince Georges County police on a technical charge of manslaughter.

At West Grove, Pa., a Washington motorist was fatally injured when his station wagon left the highway and crashed into a fence Thursday, the Associated Press reported. He was identified as Robert W. McCraith, 39, an employee of National Airways.

Three-year-old Edward C. Smith, 1201 Gallatin st. nw., was admitted to Children's Hospital with possible fractures of the collar bone and nose after he was hit by an automobile at 13th and Hamilton sts. nw. Driver of the car was listed by police as James O. Polvert, 3739 Van Ness st. nw.

Daniel D. Carrol, 6, of 7 6th st. ne. was injured, police said, as he ran out from between parked cars in the 600 block of E. Capitol st. into a streetcar operated by Martha A. Blanton, 6508 Early st., Maryland Park, Md. The child was admitted to Casualty Hospital with a possible fracture of the skull and pelvis.

John Anderson, 65, 604 3d st. nw., received possible head injuries about 10 p. m. when he was struck by a truck at 3d and G sts. nw. Driver of the truck was Jose C. Grimm, 39, of Winchester, Va., police said.

William W. Smith, 33, 421 N. Thomas st., Arlington, suffered a broken leg when struck by a station wagon about 10 a. m. in the 1700 block of G st. nw. Police identified the driver as Joseph A. Livingston, 3227 The Volta pl. nw.

Four-year-old Kenneth Pettit, 308 Fairhaven ave., Fairfax County, received a possible chest fracture and broken leg yesterday when he was run over by a truck in Alexandria.

Police said the boy ran out into the 800 block of Franklin st. from between two parked cars about 1:30 p. m. and was struck by the wheels of a delivery truck driven by Willie Allen, 24, of 519 S. Royal st., Alexandria.

At Alexandria Hospital, Kenneth's condition was called "good" although results of X-rays were still not known. Police charged Allen with operating without a driver's permit.

D. C. Asks Congress Aid On Problem Of Parking

Authority Sought
For 50-Year Lease
Of Land Used to Provide Facilities

Washington's Commissioners yesterday told Congress they need new legislation to help solve the city's parking problems.

They sent a bill to the Capitol that would give them authority to acquire and lease land for 50-year periods to private firms for the construction of off-street parking facilities.

The bill was referred to the District Committee, along with a letter from Commissioner John Russell Young outlining the proposal. Hampered by "Defect"

Commissioner Young said a solution to the city's parking difficulties was hampered by a defect in the District Parking Act of 1942. The law gives the District authority to condemn property and assemble land for parking purposes, but limits the time for which such areas can be leased for parking facilities to five years.

Young declared that "the public need for off-street parking facilities is unquestioned."

"If they cannot be provided by any other means, the District government would be justified in building them with public moneys," he said.

Young said it was desirable for the city to have authority to build the parking facilities, "but it would be far better if the facilities could be provided by some other means than a large capital expenditure of public funds."

Agency Runs Into Trouble
Young explained that the Motor Vehicle Parking Agency had run into trouble assembling land for parking facilities.

"The situation has repeatedly arisen where private interests were prepared to build a parking garage, had the capital to do it, and had assembled most of the necessary land, but were prevented from acting by the refusal of some land owner to sell, at a reasonable price, a single parcel of land needed to complete the required area," Young said.

"The Parking Agency suggested that in such a case the Commissioners might use the power of eminent domain, contained in the Act, to assemble the land, and that they might then lease the land to private interests for a long term."

Young explained the proposed bill would have this result: (1) The Commissioners would have power to lease property for terms up to 50 years with or without competitive bidding. (2) The lease would provide that the lessee erect parking facilities at his own expense. (3) Parking rates would be fixed by the Commissioners, to allow a fair return and recovery of the investment. (4) At the end of the lease, the parking facilities would become District property.

whether "American industry can control its greedy merchants."

Trade Board President John A. Reilly, reviewing the organization's work in 1947, said "it has been a great year." He praised the membership committee for getting 1672 applications and bringing the total membership to about 8000.

The annual spring outing, it was announced, will be held May 15 at Chesapeake Beach.

Area News in Brief

Trailer Evictions
Again Postponed

For the ninth time, National Capital Parks yesterday postponed eviction of 26 trailer families from East Potomac Park.

About three weeks ago 40 trailer families were notified by the marshal that their "visit"—some came for two weeks and have stayed two years—would have to terminate by April 30—yesterday—in order that the trailer park could be run on the regular two-week limit for visitors. Follies families took the notice to heart and pulled stakes.

Came the deadline, and Camp Manager Louis Napoli notified National Capital Parks (the landlord) that 26 families still insisted they could find no other place to park their trailers. Whereupon, NCP held a huddle of officials and came up with a new ultimatum.

Trailer residents who have overstayed their welcome must pull out by May 7, or they will be compelled to roll their homes-on-wheels to the old Army testing grounds on the Virginia side of the Memorial Bridge, where they will be given refuge for 30 more days.

The East Potomac Park tourist camp contains, among other facilities, 74 trailer lots, which are normally in great demand because they are inexpensive—65 cents a night—have good facilities and are located close to downtown Washington.

Bulls' Capture Calf

It took a dozen of Washington's finest "bulls" 90 minutes yesterday to cow back into captivity a frisky calf on the lamb from a date with the butcher.

Police were summoned to West Virginia and New York areas, ne about 3:30 a. m. when a call came into headquarters that a calf had been "cornered" there.

But the bull on the hoof proved elusive—fleeting from Pennsylvania Railroad tracks to Bladensburg and Queens Chapel roads, where it fell in a pit, climbed out to foot it back to the chase's starting point. Finally lassoed, it was hustled aboard a patrol wagon for its last round up at Kilsheimer Bros. slaughter house, 1900 Bladensburg rd. ne.

Lunacy Hearing Denied

A lunacy hearing was refused yesterday for a man charged with two murders because the petitioner requesting the hearing was declared not in proper form.

Justice Richmond B. Keach, District Court, refused the hearing requested on behalf of George A. Garner, 25, of 28½ Hanover st. nw. Garner and his brother, Lawrence, 23, of 2131 L st. nw., are charged with first-degree murder of two cab drivers.

The hearing was denied because the petition did not contain supporting material which would indicate the need for the hearing.

Refuses Daylight Time

Working Washington will go on the job by Daylight Saving Time Monday, but not the staff of Senator John H. Overton (D., La.).

Senator Overton, who fought to the end in the Senate to block daylight saving, announced yesterday that he and his office staff would work this summer as they did last on Standard Time.

Visitors to the office will be greeted by this sign: "Office hours, 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. EST. My time is Standard Time."

Rent Hike Favored

Average 5.14 per cent rent boosts for 80 units of Copley Courts apartment house, 1514 17th st. nw., were recommended yesterday by Rent Control Examiner James G. Tyson. The recommendation would hike three-room- and-bath apartments from $42.50 to $44.75 a month and five-room- and-bath units from $75.50 to $79.25 a month, he said. The owner had sought a 14.8 per cent increase.

Former Employer Sued

Leon A. Tashoff, proprietor of the N. Y. Jewelry Co., was sued in District Court yesterday for $10,316 by his former cashier and her husband.

The suit was brought by Camerina and William J. Brown of 7000 Aspen st., Takoma Park, Md. It charges that Tashoff illegally compelled Mrs. Brown to turn over all of her funds and part of her husband's to cover what he claimed was a shortage in her accounts. She denies any responsibility for the alleged shortage.

Uline Sues
For $53,647

A suit was filed yesterday by the M. J. Uline Co. of Washington against the Maroon Hockey Club, the Penn Center Club and Leonard A. Peto, all of Philadelphia, for $53,647.27. The suit was filed in the United States Federal Court for the eastern district of Pennsylvania.

It charged that the sum stated was owed to M. J. Uline Co., operating as the Washington Hockey Club for "out-of-pocket expenses and arena rentals" advanced by Uline for operation of the Washington Hockey Club.

Through his attorneys, Uline charged the defendants had failed to reimburse him for such expenses in accordance with a prior agreement.

The Maroon Hockey Club, inactive member of the National Hockey League, last year operated the Washington Hockey Club as a farm team and had agreed to pay all Washington expenses, according to Uline.

Postlude

Boys Club
Band Evokes
Warm Praise

By Paul Hume

The future of music in Washington is brighter because of the concert last night in Constitution Hall. The Concert Band of the Boys' Club of Washington played its first program in that hall, under the direction of Andrew G. Bodnar. But that was only a very fine frame for the entire evening. During the concert, six soloists appeared. These six were winners in the recent National Capital Instrumental Contest conducted annually by the club. Ranging in age from 10 to 16, they included one girl and five boys, divided into three pianists, normally in great demand because they are inexpensive—65 cents a night—have good facilities and are located close to downtown Washington.

All this affects Washington's musical future, not only because some of the 61 young players will grow into the city's adult professionals, but for many other reasons, including the fact that a portion of the proceeds from the concert are to be given to the National Symphony sustaining fund.

Richard Bales, who acted as chairman of the contest, and who spent many hours in planning and assisting in details of the tourneys, served as master of ceremonies, introducing the winners as they took another step toward musical fame.

The band, which has played 115 concerts in the past five years, contributed music by such familiar names as Ravel, Lecuona, Khachaturian, Romberg, Sousa, and more. In their work, traversing widely differing regions of music, they brought credit to themselves and to their director.

Taking the winning soloists, not in order of their appearance, but ladies first, Patricia Griffin, Washington pianist, was heard in the A flat Polonaise of Chopin. Miss Griffin and young Van Allen, French horn player, tied for first honors in the senior division. Robert Hilker and 10-year-old Michael Pont, the other pianists, showed fine promise in Bach and Chopin.

Violinists Danny Steinberg and Richard Brewer proved themselves in Massenet and Massenet and the aspiring French hornist took on nothing less than the first movement of Franz Strauss' horn concerto. The whole evening had a gala spirit, well in keeping with the praise due these coming artists from whom we must draw our music for the years ahead. A good-sized and very friendly audience provided unstinting applause.

Transient
Hotel Rooms
Decontrolled

Rents on transient hotel rooms were decontrolled here at midnight yesterday but Rent Control Administrator Robert F. Cogswell urged hotel owners not to hike rates for present occupants.

"It is the opinion of the administrator that while these accommodations are decontrolled as of April 30, it was the intention of Congress that the daily rate being paid by the current occupant should not be increased until the housing accommodations are vacated," he said.

President Truman signed the bill Thursday to extend District rent controls through March 31, 1949. The new law takes control of transient hotel accommodations and nonhousekeeping rooms in private homes with more than two paying guests.

Cogswell said his statement was made "in order to avoid confusion and misunderstanding when the amendment becomes effective." "At the moment," he said, "the hotels in this city are filled to capacity and a very large portion of their guests are women and school children on visiting and sightseeing tours of the city."

"Any increase in the present rate," he maintained, "would very likely create a financial hardship and one which they may not be prepared to meet."

He said he hoped the hotels would continue the "usual degree" of cooperation in this matter that they have shown in the past. Rentals being charged permanent hotel guests will still remain under the "jurisdiction and control" of his office under the new law, Cogswell said.

Fook Execution
Postponed From
May 7 to June 11

The execution of Lee Fook, 62, scheduled for May 7, was postponed yesterday until June 11. The delay was granted the convicted knife murderer of Harry Lee, 40, in order to give President Truman a chance to act on a petition for executive clemency submitted in behalf of Fook. Justice Alexander Holtzoff of District Court issued the postponement.

Meanwhile, it was learned that a petition for a writ of habeas corpus has been presented in Fook's case. John Holtzworth, who said that he is now Fook's lawyer, based the petition on grounds of constitutional rights infringement and inadequate representation of Fook during trial.

Well-Spoken, This Pair

CHOOSE WORDS WELL—Winners of the Catholic Mission Crusade oratorical contest are Loretta Klodsen, 17, of 3816 Windom pl. nw., a student at Immaculate Conception School, and Patrick Howlin, 17, of 4512 32d st., Mount Rainier, Md., a student at St. Paul's Academy. The contest was conducted at the Holy Name School, West Virginia ave. and Neal sts. ne. Their topic was "The Crusader's Role in Catholic Action."

Perjury Laid
To Man in Divorce Case

A 49-year-old engineer was charged in Municipal Court yesterday with perjuring himself in getting a divorce here.

He is Edgar C. McFarland, of Derwood, Md. Judge Ellen K. Reedy held him under $500 bond for grand jury action after a preliminary hearing. McFarland pleaded innocent.

According to Detective James G. Bryant, Jr., McFarland signed a written statement admitting the false statements which concerned residence and children.

In 1946, Justice Richmond B. Keach of District Court granted McFarland an absolute divorce from his wife, Alta L. McFarland, of Essex, Conn. In the divorce suit, McFarland stated that he lived at 1231 N. st. nw. and had no children.

Residence here is essential to get a divorce in District Court and quicker divorces generally result when there are no children involved.

According to the charges, McFarland has three children between 13 and 21 years of age and at the time of the divorce action lived in Landover Hills, Md. The complaint of perjury was made by Mrs. Alva R. Conrad, of 1008 11th st. nw. She is an acquaintance of McFarland's, police asserted.

Police said she made the complaint directly to Justice Keach who referred the case to police here for investigation.

Jerden Given
5 Years in
'Coat' Slaying

Willie Jerden, 38, Gum Springs, Va., was convicted of manslaughter and sentenced to five years in prison yesterday in Fairfax Circuit Court for the fatal shooting last October 3 of Edmund C. Proctor.

A searching party of neighbors found the body of the 27-year-old Gum Springs laborer buried in a shallow grave two weeks after his disappearance.

Police said Jerden confessed shooting Proctor in self defense after an argument over a coat. He reportedly said he left Proctor in the woods rather than take him to a hospital because he was afraid of police action. The next day, he said, he returned to the scene and covered the body with dirt.

Roundtrip Plane
Fare Reduction
Halted by CAB

The Civil Aeronautics Board yesterday halted for 90 days the bargain roundtrip fares which Eastern and National Airlines planned to put in effect today.

The proposed rate would have provided a round trip for one and a quarter times the one-way fare from May 1 to November 30. The two lines compete along the East coast.

The board ordered an investigation to determine legality of the rates. It acted on complaints by Capital and Delta airlines.

The CAB said it appears the proposed fares might provide much less revenue than the cost of the service, might be discriminatory and might result in an overall reduction of revenue. It said this might cause financial injury to the two airlines and possibly disrupt the fare structure in the industry.

5 Housing Meetings

Housing will be discussed at five meetings Monday of the Alexandria League of Women Voters. Women interested are invited to any of the following meetings in Alexandria: 1:30 p. m., 3306 Alameda ave.; 8:15 p. m., 2912 Argyle Valley dr.; 8:15 p. m., 130 Pine st., 3104 Valley dr. and 3408 Gliden dr.

Arnold Lines
Permitted
4 New Routes

The Virginia State Corporation Commission yesterday approved application of the Arnold Bus Lines for four new routes in Arlington and Fairfax Counties.

Three comparatively new subdivisions not previously served by bus will benefit from the route changes. They are the Dominion Hills, Garden City in Arlington, and Jefferson Village development in Fairfax.

One new route will extend from S. Second st. and Glebe rd. to Irving st., then via Irving to Clarendon Circle. It will permit passengers to travel from Columbia pike to Clarendon without transfer.

Routes Outlined
A second route, to serve Dominion Hills, will begin at Wilson blvd. and N. Livingston st., N. via Livingston st. and 10th rd. to Montana st. and return.

The third route to Garden City begins at Lee hwy., going north on Florida st. to 27th st., east on 27th to George Mason dr. and south on the drive to Lee hwy.

The fourth route in Fairfax County would service Jefferson Village, beginning at Lee hwy. and Shreve st. to Lee blvd., along the boulevard to Westmoreland st. and back along Jackson and Oak aves.

Permit Granted
Arnold Bus Lines Manager Marmion D. Mills said yesterday that permission to operate the four new routes had already been granted by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

He said that the SCC would review Monday the line's application to transfer two of its routes to the A. B. & W. Transit Co. Lines involved in this transfer are Route 9 to Farrington, and the portion of Route 10 over Glebe rd. and S. 16th st. south of Columbia pike.

Sasscer, Foe
Both Claim
Polls Victory

Both Democratic candidates agreed yesterday that there would be a light vote in the Fifth Maryland District congressional primary on Monday.

Otherwise, they issued diametrically opposed campaign-windup statements.

Representative Lansdale G. Sasscer, 55, dean of Maryland's six Congressmen, predicted victory by a "good margin." Sasscer is seeking renomination and election for a sixth term.

His Democratic opponent, tobacco grower George Sasse, 43, predicted he would defeat Sasscer "probably by a 4000 to 5000 majority."

The Fifth District covers the Southern Maryland tobacco belt, including Prince Georges, Anne Arundel, Calverton, Howard and St. Marys Counties, as well as parts of Baltimore and Washington.

Tobacco-land in the past has generally favored Sasscer 10 to 1. No one either in primaries or elections has come within 10,000 votes of his rival.

Sasse, a local lawyer and former general manager of the Maryland Tobacco Growers Association, said things would be different on Monday.

Sasse said he had put 11,000 miles on his speedometer this month motoring through the district to attend political rallies.

Sasscer, tied up with a busy congressional schedule, said he had been able to make only three night speeches and had been "at my desk all day every day."

Ex-D. C. Woman
Plunges 5 Floors
In South Carolina

A woman identified as Mrs. George Airey, about 35, formerly of 1334 Fort Stevens dr. ne., last night fell or leaped to her death from the fifth floor of a Charleston (S. C.) hotel.

Her 8-year-old son, who was in the room with her, was being cared for at the home of Charleston Mayor William Morrison last night while attempts were being made to locate the woman's husband.

According to information here, the Aireys left Washington about six months ago. The husband, a stone mason, has been working on a new hospital in Charleston.

Silver Spring
Projects Near End

Repaving of Georgia ave. and completion of the Baltimore & Ohio underpass in Silver Spring were promised yesterday between July 15 and August 15, by Chairman Robert M. Reinhold of the Maryland State Road Commission.

The statement followed protests this week by Silver Spring merchants that the torn-up condition of Georgia ave. is depriving them of business. Reinhold promised to investigate complaints that the work has been delayed.

Spokesmen for the Wilmoth Paving Co. of Washington, have scheduled completion of the repaving begun last fall by July 15 or August 1, Reinhold said, and the underpass is to be finished by July 1.

School Completion
Examination Is Set

The Virginia State Department of Education will hold a high school completion examination on May 28 at 9:30 a. m. at the Woodrow Wilson School, 1001 Wilson blvd., Arlington.

Any Arlington student certified by County School Superintendent Fletcher Kemp is eligible to take the tests in English, high school achievement and foreign languages.

F. Irwin Ray,
Contractor,
Dies at 58

F. Irwin Ray, 58, Montgomery County (Md.) contractor, died yesterday at his home, 4807 Hampden la., Bethesda.

The son of the late Richard T. Ray, Montgomery County commissioner around the turn of the century, Mr. Ray formed in 1913 the excavating and road work firm that bears his name.

He was born on the family farm at Rock Creek Parkway and East-West Highway and was educated in county schools. At the time of his death he was on the board of directors of the Bank of Bethesda and belonged to the Bethesda-Chevy Chase Rotary Club, Columbian Country Club and the Congressional Club.

He leaves a sister, Mrs. Mamie Ray Waters, of Bethesda, Md., and two brothers, Robert Y. Ray and Frank A. Ray, both of whom live on the family farm.

Mrs. Robert C. Kefauver
Knoxville, Tenn., April 30 (AP)—Mrs. Robert C. Kefauver, 74-year-old mother of Representative Estes Kefauver (D., Tenn.), died in a hospital today after a brief illness.

Mrs. Kefauver was brought to the hospital last Monday after suffering a paralytic stroke at her home at Madisonville.

American Press
Must Do Better
Job, Childs Says

Lexington, Va., April 30 (AP)—A Washington columnist, discussing the Washington scene, said here tonight that the American press "must do a better job than it is doing now."

"That needs to be said as often as possible in this important election year," Marquis Childs told Washington and Lee University journalism students and some 500 student editors attending the nineteenth Southern Interscholastic Press Association convention.

Childs said that the choice of the President of the United States "is determined not by the people themselves but by the professional politicians."

It is up to the press to make clear what the maneuvers of the professional politicians really mean.

Virginia Board
Denies Hearing on Lower Milk Price

Virginia's Milk Commission yesterday denied an Arlington resident's request for a hearing to consider lower milk prices, which in turn would have affected all area residents.

After meeting in Richmond it was announced: "The Commission concluded that it does not have before it sufficient information or fact to justify calling a hearing."

Oscar Smith, president of the Columbia Pike Citizens Association, who made the hearing request, said the denial would intensify his efforts to gain wider civic support to force such a hearing.

R.L. Carne, 69,
Former Post
Employee, Dies

Richard L. Carne, 69, whose quick fingers rushed The Washington Post to its thousands of subscribers the world over for 23 years, died yesterday at his home, 124 N. 2nd st., Alexandria.

An employee of The Washington Post for 37 years, Mr. Carne had operated the addressing machine in the mail room since about 1923. He was retired last November and had been ill since then.

His greatest thrill, he once recalled, came in January, 1922, when he had charge of circulation in his native Alexandria. The Knickerbocker Theater came on the heels of a severe snowstorm that choked Washington and nearby roads. With Alexandrians frantic for news of the tragedy, a special bus carrying The Washington Post to Alexandria bogged down.

Mr. Carne somehow made his way to Washington, put another bus in service, and got his papers through.

"The Post was the only paper

The Washington Figure Skating Club closed for the season last evening at a regular skating session at the Chevy Chase Ice Palace. There has been a substantial increase in membership, both junior and adults, during the year, and the club is looking forward to reopening early in the fall.

The Harned Trophy was brought to Washington by the club for the second time, for winning the highest number of points at the United States Figure Skating competitions held at Colorado Springs, Colo., in March.

The local season was climaxed last week with an ice carnival. Dallas Dort is president of the club. Richard Quieser, vice president, and E. R. Johnson, treasurer, also acted as chairman of the carnival.

Women's Equal Rights Bill Passes Hurdle in Committee

By Genevieve Reynolds

First hurdle in the 1948 fight to obtain a constitutional amendment to guarantee women equal rights under the law was cleared this week when the Senate Judiciary Committee by a 7 to 1 vote approved the proposed legislation. The Equal Rights Amendment reads as follows: "Equality of rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any State on account of sex." Congress and the several States shall have power, within their respective jurisdictions, to enforce this article by appropriate legislation. This amendment shall take effect three years after the date of ratification.

"Sparked by the National Woman's Party and supported by the principal professional and business organizations throughout the country, including the National Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc., the measure has been offered in every Congress since 1923. It was first introduced by the late Senator Charles Curtis, who later became Vice President under Herbert Hoover.

In order for the proposed legislation to come up for a vote in Congress, it must win a favorable ballot from the House Judiciary Subcommittee. Hearings by the House committee already have been heard and a decision is expected soon.

Introduced in Senate

Senator Arthur Capper, Republican of Kansas, introduced the equal rights legislation for himself and 10 other Republican and Democratic Senators. Sole "no vote" cast in the committee was that of Senator James O. Eastland, Democrat of Mississippi. Republican senatorial votes for the measure included those of Senators Alexander Wiley of Wisconsin, the committee chairman; William Langer of North Dakota; Homer Ferguson of Michigan; Forrest C. Donnell of Missouri and John S. Cooper of Kentucky. Democrats voting "aye" were Senators J. Howard McGrath of Rhode Island and J. W. Fulbright of Arkansas.

The National Woman's Party, leading advocate of the Equal Rights Amendment, points to some 1100 discriminatory laws against women still on the statute books. Party members, many of whom are lawyers, contend that women should be freed from the stigma of inferior legal status embodied in the old English common law. The members emphasize that under present law, the rights of married women are restricted as to the control of their property and earnings, contracts, guardianship of their children plus entry into independent business.

Proponents further argue that State laws limiting the hours women may work, prevent them from being employed at night; that special facilities for the gentler sex make less desirable employees and put them at a disadvantage with men.

Opponents Are Heard

Opponents of the equal right bill—led by the Women's Bureau, of the last two years, was approved.

In Bridal Procession

At St. Charles Church, Arlington, Miss Genevieve M. Coury and Louis George Burkot were married April 25 at 4 p. m., the Rev. Thomas Summers officiating. Mrs. Burkot is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Peter Coury, and her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Burkot of Easton, Pa.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of ivory satin with hoop skirt and inserts of Venetian lace at the neck and cuffs. Her veil of illusion fell from a tiara of seed pearls and she carried a cascade bouquet of white lilies, centered with a white rose.

Miss Juliette B. Coury, maid of honor, wore a gown of orchid faille and carried Nile green carnations. The other attendants, Miss Josephine Coury, Miss Elaine Samaha, Miss Sally Ritz and Miss Anna John, wore gowns of Nile green and carried bouquets of orchid-tinted carnations.

Sidney Burkot acted as best man and the ushers were Philip Kogok, Francis Samaha, Danny Boulos and Joe Morell.

Leadership Sought To End Conflict In Palestine Area

Grand Rapids, Mich., April 30.—The National League of Women Voters, in a last-minute scheduled action, today urged United States leadership in ending the conflict in Palestine.

Over minority objections, which mainly felt the action too hasty, the convention went on record asking the United States Government to exercise immediate strong leadership in utilizing every possible means under the United Nations Charter to resolve the Palestine conflict.

It was the first time in five convention days the question had formally been raised.

Action followed adoption, after four days of debate, of the league's stand on strengthening the United Nations.

As approved the platform declares "the league will work for United States policies directed toward an enduring world peace, supported by a strong United Nations and made possible by sound domestic and world economy."

Specifically the league supports the United Nations specialized agencies, and advocates their increased use through adequate budgets and improved procedures. The league also wants an increase in the security functions of the U. N., and a full information program on methods of strengthening U. N. functions.

A league budget for the next two years of $147,800, and increase of approximately $20,000 over that of the last two years, was approved.

Ask Anne 'Gay Nineties' Party

We have recently moved into our new home and wish to give a small party with the theme the "Gay Nineties." Can you give me any suggestions for invitations or entertainment? I had thought I would use small tables with checked covers and centerpieces for refreshments.

R. S.

Write the invitations on white note paper which has been cut in the shapes of tandem bicycles. Gay Nineties ladies, or any other object reminiscent of that period. Cut the paper so that the invitation will open on the fold. Write the invitation on the inside sheet. For such a party, it always is fun to ask the guests to come dressed in costumes of the period, and of course this should be written on the invitation.

If the guests are costumed, here's a stunt which would get the party off to a good start. As the guests arrive, arrange to usher half the guests into one room without the other half seeing them. In advance of the party, hang a sheet to cover a doorway with a light back of it so that the figure of a person standing between the light and the sheet will cast a silhouette visible to guests in the room beyond. This arrangement should be tested out in advance of the party so that you will know just what lighting arrangement will need to be made and where each guest should stand to cast a sharp silhouette on the sheet. Now, when all guests have arrived, and are divided equally in rooms on either side of the sheet, have the guests take turns casting silhouettes. The idea is for those in the other room to guess who the silhouette is. Of course, the different lines of the Gay Nineties costumes makes the guessing more difficult. After all have been guessed in one room, the groups can change places, the change taking place in the dark. Or, perhaps you could arrange lights so that the silhouettes can be seen from either side of the sheet, thus eliminating need for changing rooms.

Square dancing, using records which call the dances as well as provide the music, could provide the rest of the evening's entertainment.

residence under your summer home is probably temporary. Also snakes are really timid and can be driven away from around the house by noise. Playing a water hose under the cottage would drive them out. Do any of our readers have any further suggestions for ridding G. L. S.'s cottage grounds of snakes?

I am planning on refinishing a cedar chest in maple. It is now finished in mahogany. Could you tell me how to go about this job, and what I would need? M. L.

Remove the present finish by applying a good paint and varnish remover, following the directions which come with it. If your chest is veneered, work quickly with the remover so that it won't penetrate under the veneer and loosen it. When all finish is removed, go over the bare wood with benzine to get off every trace of remover (Always work with benzine in a well ventilated room away from flames). When dry, sand the surface smooth with a very fine sandpaper. Wipe away every bit of dust with a soft cloth when sanding is completed. For the finish, you might apply two coats of maple varnish stain or stain the raw wood with an oil stain in the color you wish, followed by wax. If you use an oil stain, the raw wood a coat of half-and-half mixture of raw linseed oil and turpentine before applying the stain so that it will absorb it evenly. Brush the stain on freely and when it has penetrated and the color you wish is achieved, wipe off the excess. When the stain is thoroughly dry, apply several thin coats of wax, rubbing well after each coat has dried.

Could you tell me how to preserve and keep the rubber soles of imported ski boots from becoming dry? M.A.W.

After each use, wipe the rubber soles with soap and water to remove any oil or grease, which is damaging to rubber. If you wish, when they are clean and dry, apply a coat of nonrubbing (water emulsion) wax to the soles. Do not use paste or liquid rubbing waxes on rubber because they contain oils which are harmful to it.

Can you recommend a school that offers sewing courses for beginners in the evenings besides the sewing machine courses? I would prefer small classes with individual instruction, if possible. E. F. D.

There will be a new sewing class started at the Young Women's Christian Association, 17th and K sts. n.w., the middle of May. They plan to limit the number of students to nine, so that you would receive the individual help you wish, but to get in, they suggest you register early.

D. C. Clearings Set April Peak Of 322 Million

By S. Oliver Goodman
Soaring 11 per cent over a year ago, Washington bank clearings in April set a new peak for that month and were the second best on record here.

The $322,440,133 total last month was second only to the record $331,328,944 registered in December, 1947, according to files of the Washington Clearing House Association.

For the first four months, check turnover reached $1,182,442,779 for a 9 per cent increase over the $1,075,280,288 in the corresponding period last year. The latest four-month aggregate was new all-time high for that period.

Federal and District income tax payments were a contributing factor in the high April clearings. Although deadline for Federal taxes was March 15, the Internal Revenue Bureau cleared the bulk of checks in April. Continued activity in business and high prices were also factors.

Local clearings compared as follows:

MARK TRAIL

It seems to me the symphony people are passing up the simplest method in the world for raising enough cash to meet their obligations and guarantee Watergate concerts this season.

All they have to do is offer season tickets at a reduced rate. It wouldn't take more than about 5000 sales of season tickets to solve the whole problem—and there are surely 5000 music lovers in Washington.

This business of forever passing the hat for one worthwhile cause after another eventually leaves the public yawning.

The Watergate concerts don't require charity; all they need is some intelligent merchandising.

BOOKIES ANONYMOUS

District Attorney Fay says he would like to keep secret the names of the gambling investigation grand jurors.

Local bookies would also like to remain as anonymous as possible while the heat is on.

GIVE-AWAYS

"Five weaned kittens, 5 weeks old; they're from a very fine momma." (Decatur 1111).

"Four kittens, 2 months old, playful and affectionate; three females, one male." (Dupont 9228, from 9 a. m. to 1 p. m.)

"Two charming, playful kittens, 6 weeks old." (Hobart 1465).

"Friendly, lively, lovable, 1-year-old collie and spitz dog. Please help me find a good home for him because there is nobody at home to take care of him during the day." (North 3797).

"Very pretty male spitz, tan color." (Shepherd 2739).

"Four lovely 5-week-old kittens whose mother was killed by a car." (Sligo 6114).

"Two 4-week-old kittens, dead ringers for Chessie of C. & O. fame." (Chestnut 5262).

"Three female kittens, 8 weeks old. They're beauties." (Sligo 5183 between 9 a. m. and 4 p. m.)

"Gray and white male kitten, 6 weeks old." (Ordway 3842).

Apparently I cannot repeat this information too often—so here it is again for the benefit of newcomers:

There is no charge for these notices, but it usually takes several days to find room to run them. They must be submitted by mail, not by phone.

They get dozens of responses, and if you want to claim a Give-Away you've got to call the donor early.

These items must be confined to bona fide gifts. If money is to change hands in any way, your notice properly belongs in our excellent classified columns. Thank you.

WHERE'LL WE GO?

Shirley Patterson of 4743 Homer ave., Sulland Manor, Md., has a problem which is probably duplicated in many other District Line homes.

Hubby Bradley has just gotten a new car, and now she Leonard Lyons . . .

NEW YORK. — William S. Knudsen, who died Tuesday, once told me of his arrival in America, of the disembarkation at Ellis Island and of his standing in line with the rest of the immigrants. His place was last in line, and one of the uniformed guards pushed him and gruffly ordered: "Get along, you."

Mr. Knudsen never forgot that "Get along, you!" and explained: "And ever since then I've been getting along." . . . He consented to rest only when the war was over and he retired from Washington.

"I'm going home, to take off my shoes and put my feet in the creek," he sighed, "and wash off four years of walking on concrete."

The constant complaints about Washington red tape used to amuse him. "It's the same as in private industry," he said, "but there we didn't call it red tape. We called it system" . . . One night Knudsen listened to a pessimistic report and heard frequent references to maintaining "the status quo" in the Far East and domestically. "Status quo," he said, "is Latin for 'the fix we're in'."

When Knudsen was placed in charge of America's reararmament program, he established a speed record in erecting a building to house his large staff. This was a result of his learning that Leon Henderson had managed to get a complete building for the OPA staff. Knudsen, by virtue of his overall powers, immediately put in a claim for this building. "Now just a minute, Bill," Henderson argued. "It's like the story of the two Southern boys. One of them said 'I wish I had a million watermelons,' and the second one asked 'Would you give me some of them?' The first one said 'No' and they fought, until they were battered and bleeding, and the second one suddenly realized 'I can do my own wishing, so keep your watermelons.'"

Henderson then pointed to a vacant lot across the street, and said: "There it is. Do your own wishing." In the record time of 38 days Knudsen had an office building there.

Symphony Fund Needs Salesmen, Not Charity

THE FUTILITY OF IT ALL

Sometimes this "Land of Opportunity" legend seems a bit far-fetched.

Did you see the story about our Children's Receiving Home being called a "firetrap"?

Just picture, if you will, a little shaver who has finally graduated from the Home. He gets a job as a ditch digger. A studies law at night, makes a sparkling record as the brilliant young district attorney, rises to the United States Senate, and is finally elected President.

As he enters the ancient portals of the Executive Mansion after his inauguration, he stands in the center hall, dejectedly surveying the scene about him. Utterly beaten, he sighs:

"After all these years, I'm back to living in a firetrap again!"

Do you suppose Mr. Stassen has ever stopped to think about it in that way?

SAME GUY

"I see that a fellow named Taft has made a flat statement that Harold Stassen will not win the Republican nomination," writes W. M. O'C.

"Is this Taft any relation of the Taft who predicted that prices would go down after the repeal of OPA?"

Pattersons are looking forward to some pleasant weekend drives to nearby recreation areas.

They're especially interested in places where young children could enjoy a family picnic. But it's been so long since they've had a car, they don't know where to go.

So Shirley suggests that we might start a "tourists' exchange," with District Liners reporting to each other on nearby holiday spots they've found attractive.

If you make a recommendation, it might be well to include such information as: distance from Washington, best route, and driving time.

Fight Shapes Up on Cabinet Post

By Drew Pearson

Democrats are churning up a hot backstage fight over who should succeed Clinton Anderson as Secretary of Agriculture. There are two candidates:

1. Assistant Secretary Charles Brannan of Denver, who has worked his way up the ladder, has a fine record, plus the backing of his boss, Secretary Anderson.
2. Congressman John Flannagan of Virginia, long chairman of the House Agriculture Committee and for some years the lone New Deal Congressman in Virginia.

Both groups are tugging hard at President Truman's coat-tails for their man. Democratic members of the House Agriculture Committee even tried to persuade Anderson to shift to Flannagan, but he stopped them cold.

"Why in the hell," he exploded, "do you come to me and ask me to use my influence with the President to appoint somebody from a State that won't even let him on the ballot?"

He referred to Virginia's recent move to prevent President Truman's name from appearing on the ticket as a result of his civil rights message.

"I think it would be a good appointment in spite of that," shot back North Carolina's Harold Cooley.

"Have you read the record of Flannagan's speeches?" demanded Anderson, still fuming. This was an obvious dig at Flannagan's accusations on the House floor last year that the Agriculture Department had sold out to the sugar trust.

After running into a blank wall with retiring Secretary Anderson, the Congressmen called at the White House. The interview was cut-and-dried. Cooley told Truman of Flannagan's 18-year record in Congress and pointed out that he was responsible for much of the present farm program.

Utah's Walter Granger broke in with the comment that Flannagan was a "rebel of the South" and had deserted the South in many of their traditional stands. On the other hand, he has been a loyal supporter of the Administration, pleaded Granger.

Byrd's Blessing
In spite of this, Cooley added quickly, Flannagan has the support of Virginia's Senator Harry Byrd.

Truman was noncommittal. Perhaps the Congressmen didn't know that Senator Byrd's endorsement didn't mean much to a President who had described Byrd as "the best Republican in the Democratic Party."

"I know Flannagan personally and he has a good record as far as I am concerned," was Truman's sole comment.

The House group had passed around a petition for Flannagan, signed by about 30 of the most prominent Democratic Congressmen. But the President's chilly reception made them decide not to present it. They feared he would consider it high-pressure tactics.

Meanwhile, Brannan has the vigorous support of Senators Murray of Montana, Kilgore of West Virginia, Elbert Thomas of Utah, and Chavez of New Mexico.

Big Bill Knudsen
I was sorry to hear about the death of Big Bill Knudsen, the former head of General Motors. It meant that a piece of the old-time, hectic, hurrying, wartime Washington was gone.

It doesn't seem so long ago that Bill came here from Detroit to coordinate the Nation's war production. Those were the days when the Army was changing airplane models every other hour, when admirals and generals were fighting over whether steel was to go into guns or battleships, and when Washington exuded patriotism, red tape, lobbyists, and not too much efficiency.

Into this imbroglio was plucked Bill Knudsen, a Danish immigrant boy, who had made a great name for himself in the automobile world and who wanted to do something for his country.

His co-defense-coordinator was another immigrant boy, Sidney Hillman, head of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers. The idea was to get labor and business working together. Both are dead now. Both were eased out of the defense picture—in my opinion because the brass hats couldn't control them. They were too tough.

Hillman was given the gate without much ceremony. But Knudsen, perhaps because he ranked high in the industrial world, was made a lieutenant general.

I called on him once at his home after he had put on his soldier suit and had started his innocuous new

Rumor

However well it may describe the dark or brighter side... A rumor is a message that is never justified... It is an idle tale that has no factual support... And would not be admissible... As evidence in court... And yet it is a common thing... That flies from door to door... And causes deep discussion and... Eventually a war... A rumor is the wishful thought... Of women and of men... Who want to rush to new renown... Or guide a poison pen... It thrives upon suspicion and... Creates a certain doubt... And gives the gossip every thing... They want to talk about.

Job of inspecting airplane factories. It was obvious that he didn't like it much. But he was a good soldier and a real patriot. You almost never talked to Knudsen but what he recalled how he had come to this country as an immigrant boy, and how this country had done great things for him and he wanted to do something in return. You could see that he meant it. Bill Knudsen was a man who didn't talk much, but meant what he said. I couldn't help thinking about all this when Bill died the other day—just after the Daughters of the American Revolution went on record in favor of closing the immigration gates on all future Bill Knudsens.
